LS to take up motion to remove HC judge

After proceedings in the Lower House, it will go to the RS; Rijiju says 152 ruling and Opposition MPs have signed the motion against Justice Varma

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

> All parties have agreed that removal of Justice Varma has to be a joint call. Now there should be no issue with regards to which House it has to be moved... we have agreed that it will be moved in the Lok Sabha and concurred in the Rajya Sabha as per rule
>
> KIREN RIJIJU
> Parliamentary Affairs Minister

The Lok Sabha will take up a bipartisan motion to remove Justice Yashwant Varma of the Allahabad High Court, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju said on Friday.

He said that it was a unanimous decision of all political parties, and 152 MPs from the ruling alliance and the Opposition had signed the motion.

Cash recovery row

Justice Varma, then with the Delhi High Court, was caught in a controversy after wads of half-burnt currency notes were found at his official residence in the capital when a fire broke out there on March 14. He was transferred to the Allahabad High Court after the incident.

Mr. Rijiju said all parties had agreed that the removal of Justice Varma should be a joint call, adding that the proceedings will be first taken up in the Lok Sabha and then in the Rajya Sabha in line with the Judges (Inquiry) Act.

"We shouldn't remain in any doubt, proceedings will begin in the Lok Sabha," he said. His remarks have to be seen in the backdrop of an Opposition-sponsored motion that was moved in the Rajya Sabha on July 21, the same day the process was set rolling in the Lok Sabha.

Official sources said the notice in the Rajya Sabha had not been admitted.

France will recognise Palestine as state: Macron

Agence France-Presse
PARIS

French President Emmanuel Macron said on Thursday his country would formally recognise a Palestinian state during a UN meeting in September.

The U.S. strongly opposed France's move, with its Secretary of State Marco Rubio calling it a "reckless decision [that] only serves Hamas propaganda".

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said the decision "rewards terror".

Over 140 countries, including India, have recognised Palestine as a state.

Several countries have announced plans to recognise its statehood since Israel launched a bombardment of Gaza nearly two years ago in response to the Hamas attacks.

MALE

Maldivian President Mohamed Muizzu on Friday thanked India for its "pivotal role" in helping the island nation deal with its economic crunch and liquidity challenges, and said he and Prime Minister Narendra Modi have "charted a clear path" for future cooperation.

Mr. Muizzu's statement came on the first day of Mr. Modi's two-day state visit to the Indian Ocean archipelago, following his visit to the United Kingdom.

There has been a steady reset in bilateral ties since Mr. Muizzu visited India in October 2024, following a serious strain in the preceding year after Mr. Muizzu's election.

SIT takes over Dharmasthala 'burials' case

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The Special Investigation Team (SIT), led by Director-General of Police Pronab Mohanty, formed to investigate the alleged sexual abuse, murders and burials in Dharmasthala, officially took over the case files from the local police on Friday.

Based on a complaint by a former sanitation worker in the temple town that he was forced to bury several bodies, an FIR was registered on July 4 and SIT was formed on July 19.

Sources in the SIT said that its first step will be to question the complainant who has been provided protection under the Witness Protection Scheme 2018.

Meanwhile, the local police sought permission from court to conduct brain mapping and narco analysis of the complainant, for which he has to give his consent.

The Red Bull-Verstappen-Mercedes plot thickens with Horner sacking

The four-time world champion has kept his team afloat, but Red Bull runs the risk of losing its prized asset ahead of the radical rules shake-up in 2026. With Mercedes and Toto Wolff eyeing the 27-year-old Dutch driver, Formula One is set for a very interesting summer

S. Dipak Ragav

If there is one truism that has stood the test of time, it is that empires always fall. Some crumble quickly, while others wither away slowly, even as the rulers fail to realise the erosion of power and influence. This applies to history, big businesses and sporting outfits.

Sport, in particular, has seen many rises and falls, given the relatively short playing careers of professional athletes and how that impacts team fortunes.

Past glory

The West Indies did not lose a Test cricket series from April 1980 to April 1995. It has since continued to plummet to new lows. Manchester United hasn't won the Premier League since legendary manager Alex Ferguson retired after guiding the club to its 20th top-flight title in 2013. Last season, the Red Devils finished 15th in the standings, their lowest in five decades.

In the world of Formula One, Ferrari hasn't won a title since 2008, a period following the departure of its famous axis of Ross Brawn, Michael Schumacher and Jean Todt, which had powered the Scuderia to stupendous success from 1999 to 2004.

However, unlike most other sports, where bringing in a few exceptional players can quickly transform a team's fortunes, turning the ship around is more complex in motorsport. It takes years to establish the team structure required to compete for wins and titles. So, when a successful outfit starts to fall apart, it can go off the rails spectacularly.

Earlier this month, Red Bull, which has won four drivers' and two constructors' titles over the last four seasons, hit the news for the wrong reasons when team boss Christian Horner was sacked. Horner has been at the helm of the energy drink giant's main F1 team since it entered the sport in 2005. In the cut-throat world of competition, his 20-year stint is one of the longest tenures at the helm for someone who is not an owner.

Horner was instrumental in the team's success, luring design genius Adrian Newey away from McLaren in the first year. Newey went on to lay the foundations for the squad's tremendous run of triumphs from 2010 to 2013 and from 2021 to 2024.

In all, Red Bull has won eight drivers' and six constructors' titles, and its 124 race wins make it the fourth-most successful team in the sport's 76-year history. Horner's exit comes on the back of other high-profile Red Bull departures over the last year, including that of Newey, who joined Aston Martin, and sporting director Jonathan Wheatley, currently team principal at Sauber.

Horner has been in the eye of the storm since February last year, when he was accused of sexual harassment by a female employee. He was cleared of the claims by an internal investigation, but his position has been tenuous. Red Bull's drastic drop in form since the middle of last year also weakened his hand. There are reasons to believe that his underplaying of Newey's influence forced the legendary designer to leave.

Wolff missed the chance to sign a teenaged Verstappen in 2015, when Red Bull offered him a seat in Toro Rosso. Smarting from that snub, Wolff has always hoped to one day get his man

Newey also indicated that the engineering team did not heed his warnings about the capricious nature of the car as early as 2023, when Red Bull won 21 of 22 races. Only Verstappen has been able to live with the car's handling. The reigning champion is almost heroically keeping Red Bull afloat, having scored 165 of the team's 172 points. He is third in the drivers' standings, 69 behind leader Oscar Piastri.

Not sustainable

The fact that Verstappen has managed two wins and consistently fights for the podium, even occasionally securing pole, demonstrates his exceptional ability behind a problematic car. However, the 27-year-old has made clear his frustrations of having to wring its neck to extract miraculous results every weekend.

As it often happens, whenever there is trouble in the kingdom, it attracts enemies who sense an opportunity to strike gold. Since last year, Mercedes and its part-owner team boss Toto Wolff have made no secret of courting the four-time champion.

Wolff missed the chance to sign a teenaged Verstappen in 2015, as Red Bull offered the Dutchman a seat immediately in its sister team Toro Rosso, something Mercedes couldn't guarantee. Smarting from that snub, Wolff has always hoped to one day get his man.

Another factor that was in play until recently was the simmering tension between the Verstappen camp and Horner. Max's father Jos attacked the now-sacked team boss publicly last year after the harassment allegations, saying the team was in danger of being torn apart as long as Horner remained in the hot seat. Seen in this light, could Red Bull's sacking of Horner have been a means of placating the Verstappen camp into staying, given the significance of next season?

In 2026, F1 will transition to new sustainable power units. Red Bull is taking a step into the unknown by building its own powertrains. Traditionally, engines are built by OEMs and not independent racing teams, which prefer to focus on the chassis and partner with a major auto manufacturer for engine supply.

But when Red Bull's current partner Honda pulled out in 2021, Horner pushed for Red Bull to become an engine manufacturer. Despite hiring heavily from rival teams, there are now murmurs that Red Bull's engine is behind Mercedes in terms of competitiveness.

The annual summer break (after the Hungarian GP on August 3 this season) is around the time when most driver contracts are renewed, and even though Verstappen has a deal until 2028, there are always get-out clauses.

Mercedes has a potential opening next year, with George Russell's contract ending at the end of 2025. The Briton has revealed his situation is dependent on Verstappen.

In any other scenario, Russell, who proved faster than Lewis Hamilton in their years as teammates and is performing at a high level this season, would have been a shoo-in for an automatic renewal. The fact that it has not happened shows how seriously Wolff believes he has a chance to land the big fish.

Before Verstappen's reign, Mercedes ruled F1 from 2014 to 2021, winning eight constructors' titles on the bounce in one of the longest periods of dominance in any sport worldwide. The foundation for that success was laid in 2014, when the current hybrid power units emerged, and Mercedes gained a significant lead over its rivals.

Interestingly, in preparation for the new era, Wolff and Niki Lauda, then a director at Mercedes, convinced Hamilton to leave McLaren at the end of 2012.

Doing a Hamilton?

It proved a masterstroke, with Hamilton securing six more world titles. If there is truth in the rumour of Mercedes nailing the new engines, Verstappen could be tempted to do what Hamilton did and jump from a ship that has a lot of holes.

While any move is fraught with risk, Mercedes has a track record of producing fast, reliable engines, and could offer Verstappen a shot at shattering even more records.

If he does jump ship, it could deal a fatal blow to Red Bull and send the F1 silly season into overdrive during the summer break.

VITM to celebrate diamond jubilee with launch of Fun Science Gallery

The gallery has been designed as an interactive space with 50 exhibits related to mechanics, optics, sound, physics, etc.

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

Visvesvaraya Industrial and Technological Museum (VITM), one of the oldest science museums in the country, will see the inauguration of a Fun Science Gallery for its diamond jubilee celebrations to be held on Saturday and Sunday.

The gallery has been designed as an interactive space with around 50 exhibits related to mechanics, optics, sound, mathematics, physics, and so on. Set to be inaugurated on July 27, it will be open to public from the next day onwards.

"The gallery existed earlier too. But we have thoroughly renovated it and will now open it for the public," said Sajoo Bhaskaran, director at VITM.

The renovated gallery covers practical applications related to basic physics and science, the level of which is taught in high school and college. SUDHAKARA JAIN

What it showcases

The renovated gallery covers practical applications related to basic physics and science, the level of which is taught in high school and college.

"Students can do the activities here and learn the principles behind each. Many fun elements including illusions, puzzles, and other activities have also been included," said Cyril K. Babu, curator at VITM.

As part of the celebrations, a memorial talk on M. Visvesvaraya by S.M. Khened, member at NCSM Society and former director at VITM, will also be held on Saturday.

A pioneer

VITM, the second science museum in the country after the Birla Industrial and Technological Museum in Kolkata, was inaugurated on July 27, 1965, by Indira Gandhi, who was then Minister of Information and Broadcasting.

"The idea came from journalist B.N. Gupta just before the 100th birthday celebration of Sir M.V. He had travelled across the world, seen many museums, and felt Bengaluru should have a similar one. The All India Manufacturers' Organisation collected the money for the building and formed a trust," explained Mr. Bhaskaran.

In 1962, then Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru inaugurated the building which, however, housed only a temporary exhibition.

By 1965, the trust handed over the museum to the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research. On July 27 in the same year, the museum opened with an electro-technic gallery. The same has been considered as the foundation day of VITM. In 1978, it came under the aegis of National Council of Science Museums (NCSM).

BU approves co-education tag for NMKRV College for Women

Jayanth R.
BENGALURU

In a recent Syndicate meeting, Bangalore University approved the conversion of NMKRV College for Women at Jayanagar in Bengaluru into a co-education institution from the 2025-26 academic year.

A permission has already been obtained from the Collegiate Education Department for conversion and renaming it as NMKRV College.

In the first year, 20% seats have been reserved for boys and 80% for girls in all undergraduate (UG) and postgraduate (PG) courses. The government has given permission to fill 1,000 seats for first-year UG courses, of which about 700 seats have already been filled. Out of these, around 140 students are boys. "The co-education classes will be inaugurated on July 28. All boys and girls will come to the college on that day," said Suchitra, principal.

The college management converted NMKRV Junior College into co-education in 2018. SUDHAKARA JAIN

With an aim to encourage education of girls, Meda Kasturiranga Setty and Nagarathnamma Meda Kasturiranga Setty established NMKRV College for Women in 1973. However, in the changing scenario, the number of students in this college also declined. And, in order to bring inclusiveness in the education system, the college management has taken steps to start co-education.

Now, the college has 14 departments, including UG, PG, Law, BEd, and more than 5,000 students are studying there. However, from this academic year, UG and PG courses have been made co-education. "We wanted to be more inclusive to accommodate students from other gender also," said Ms. Suchitra.

She stated that at an earlier time, people were unwilling to send girl children to co-education college. "Even now, we prefer more girls and we accommodate only 20% boys. The first priority is always women," she added. The management converted NMKRV Junior College into co-education in 2018.

Khata rules notified

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The State government has notified the recent Cabinet decision on providing A khata to B khata plots in Bengaluru civic limits, which adhere to six norms.

Apartment complexes that have already come up, but do not adhere to these norms will continue to have B khatas. However, plots, which do not adhere to these norms, will be given A khatas, with a mention of violation of building bylaws.

Pragg summons his best, shows why Carlsen sees a lot of himself in the Indian

The 19-year-old GM has risen to World No. 4 — and India No. 1 — on the back of winning three important classical tournaments in the first half of the year. He is aiming to carry this form into the big events lined up for the rest of 2025 — particularly the World Cup at home

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

> This is one of the best phases of my career. I have tried to change a few things, and they have gone my way. I am much more confident and I push myself more in critical games

P.K. Ajith Kumar

In the latest World rankings released by FIDE, three of the top 10 are from India. The only other country that has more than one player in that list, published at the beginning of the month by the world chess governing body, is the United States, which has two.

R. Praggnanandhaa is ranked fourth, making him the highest ranked Indian; he is followed in fifth and sixth places by Arjun Erigaisi and D. Gukesh, respectively. It is the first time that the 19-year-old from Chennai is the India No. 1.

Not a big deal

Not that he considers it a big deal. "I am just [three points] ahead [of Arjun and Gukesh]," he stressed while talking to The Hindu recently over the phone from Zagreb, one of several international cities he has been crisscrossing through of late.

He, however, admits he is rather happy with the way he has been playing over the last few months. His current Elo rating also reflects that happiness. It is his career-best – 2779.

He truly seems to have pushed past the disappointments of 2024, which wasn't a great year for him, especially by the high standard he has set himself. Yes, he did play his part in India's stunning triumph at the Chess Olympiad in Budapest, but he wasn't as consistent last year as he would have liked.

This year, though, he has been playing quite superb chess, some of the best in his career. He has already won three important classical tournaments, including the prestigious Tata Steel at Wijk aan Zee in the Netherlands.

"It was a very important win for me because I was coming from not a great 2024," says Praggnanandhaa. "I had finished the previous year missing a medal at the World Rapid Championship; I was so close. I lost a game from a winning position in the penultimate round. So coming from that, starting the year with such a win certainly gives you confidence."

And Wijk aan Zee was one event he always wanted to win, from the time he was a kid. "It has so much history, of 87 years, and it was won in the past by several World champions," he says. "So winning that tournament was very special for me."

He followed it up by winning the Superbet Chess Classic in Romania and the UzChess Cup in Uzbekistan. "Tashkent was special because I wasn't thinking about winning it till the last couple of rounds," he reveals. "I was one and a half points behind the leader, and it didn't look like I had much of a chance, but things went my way. I managed to take my chances, against Arjun and Nodirbek Abdusattorov, two of the strongest players in the world right now. Then suddenly, I was in the tiebreakers, and I won."

In Romania, too, it was through the tiebreakers that he emerged as the champion, overcoming challenges from Alireza Firouzja and Maxime Vachier-Lagrave. And it was his maiden title on the Grand Chess Tour.

> Gukesh's World Championship victory over Ding Liren was exciting. Arjun crossing the 2800 mark in Elo rating was also inspiring. With our performances, we motivate each other

"Yes, this is one of the best phases of my career," says Praggnanandhaa. "I have tried to change a few things about my game, and they have gone my way. I am much more confident and I push myself more in those critical games."

Handling time pressure

He is also happy with the way he has handled the tiebreakers. "I needed to push myself in those games and I was able to do that," he says. "They are blitz games and they go down to these few seconds, which can go any way. I did need some luck in some of those games, but pushing myself certainly helped."

He is hoping to continue his form for the rest of the year, which has many major tournaments coming up, including the FIDE Grand Swiss, the Sinquefield Cup and the World Cup, which India will host.

"It is nice that the World Cup is being held in India," he says. "It will be an exciting event as there is a lot of interest in India in chess, and people can get to watch such a big tournament. And I am also excited to play the World Cup in India."

GETTY IMAGES

Praggnanandhaa is, of course, not going to be the only serious contender from India. He says being part of a group of strong Indian players definitely helps.

"I was following Gukesh's World Championship match in Singapore and his victory over Ding Liren was exciting," he says. "Arjun crossing the 2800 mark in Elo rating was also inspiring. With our performances, we all motivate each other. And it is nice to see other young Indian players are also doing well. Nihal Sarin is now playing more classical events, and he is winning tournaments too. And there is Aravindh Chithambaram, too."

Gukesh, Nihal, Arjun and Praggnanandhaa have benefited from significant support from corporates. "Sponsorship is very important," he says. "You have to travel a lot for tournaments, and training, too. And these things are not easy, and are expensive.

"For instance, when I prepared for the Candidates tournament, I needed to have a team and have training camps in person. All that requires financial support. I have been fortunate that Adani Group has been supporting me in a huge way. And they were there even when I was not having a good time last year. They were there supporting me throughout."

He is encouraged by the fact that more corporates in India are investing in chess. "And we need more strong events like the Chennai Grandmasters," he says. "I don't mind playing anywhere but playing in India is always special to me."

Praggnanandhaa is also happy to find chess becoming even more mainstream. He will feature in the Esports World Cup, where chess will make its debut on July 29. He has joined Team Liquid, which boasts World No. 1 Magnus Carlsen and No. 3 Fabiano Caruana.

The Magnus effect

He says he is really glad to be part of that team. Carlsen, the five-time World champion from Norway, has often spoken highly of him, and the Indian has scored some memorable wins against the all-time great over the last few years.

Last week in Las Vegas, in fact, he beat Carlsen twice inside four days at the Freestyle Grand Slam. During the live stream of that event, Carlsen's wife Ella Victoria made an interesting remark while talking about Gukesh, Praggnanandhaa and Arjun. "Magnus did say that Pragg plays the most similar to him," she said.

High praise indeed.

Balancing act

What happens when aerospace engineering meets surf culture? A new sport forms.

Windsurfing emerged in the late 1960s as a result of this fusion. Jim Drake, an aeronautical engineer who spent his early years sailing, surfing and skiing, is credited with inventing the discipline, also known as sailboarding and boardsailing, in California.

Windsurfing's ancestry isn't straightforward, though. Englishman Peter Chilvers and American Newman Darby have claims of having pioneered the concept, too.

The sport, a combination of sailing and surfing, became an Olympic event in 1984 (men). A women's category was added in 1992. Olympic windsurfing utilises 'One Design' boards — all competitors use the same boards, daggerboards, fins and sails. The equipment is chosen to allow racing in a wide range of conditions because Olympic events must take place as scheduled whether or not the wind is strong enough for planing (skimming over the water).

The cutting-edge iQFOiL — the windsurfing class selected by World Sailing for Paris 2024 — will also feature at LA 2028.

NHAI plans multiple toll booths on Bengaluru-Mysuru highway

Officials say it will allow motorists to pay only for the distance they travel, instead of bearing the full toll cost

Darshan Devaiah B.P.
BENGALURU

In a move aimed at making travel more affordable for those commuting to nearby towns and villages, the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) is set to introduce multiple toll booths at various entry and exit points along the Bengaluru-Mysuru access-controlled highway.

Officials say this plan will allow motorists to pay only for the distance they travel, instead of bearing the full toll cost. For instance, currently, cars, vans, and jeeps using the Bengaluru to Nidaghatta stretch of the highway are charged ₹180 for a one-way trip and ₹270 for a round trip completed within 24 hours. Meanwhile, for travel between Nidaghatta and Mysuru, toll collection at Gananguru village requires these vehicles to pay ₹175 for a single journey and ₹260 for a return trip within the same 24-hour window regardless of the distance covered. This has sparked complaints, especially from short-distance commuters who use the highway for local travel.

According to NHAI officials, the new toll system will be introduced at 14 locations across the 119-km highway over the next two years.
FILE PHOTO

According to NHAI officials, the new toll system will be introduced at 14 locations across the 119-km highway over the next two years. The project includes the construction of railway overbridges, underpasses, and overpasses wherever necessary, with a total budget of ₹712 crore. A private construction firm has been awarded the tender, and is expected to complete the project within two years. "The proposed toll booths to be built will include loops and dedicated lanes to ensure smooth entry and exit. The toll will be calculated based on the actual distance travelled," a official told The Hindu.

Entry and exit points

The entry and exit points are likely to be developed in phases across different segments of the Bengaluru-Mysuru expressway. The NHAI officials said that two entry/exit points will be constructed between Bengaluru and the Bidadi bypass, followed by two more between Bidadi and the Ramanagara bypass.

The stretch between Ramanagara and Nidaghatta, via the Channapatna bypass, will have three entry/exit points. Between Maddur and the Mandya bypass, two such points are planned. The Mandya to Srirangapatna section will see four entry/exit points, while one will be constructed between Srirangapatna and Mysuru.

An NHAI official stated that this decentralised tolling method could also reduce the congestion currently observed on service roads near toll plazas.

Welcome relief

For commuters like Paramesh K. from Ramanagara, the initiative comes as a welcome relief.

Another frequent traveller Mahesh Kumar from Mandya voiced mixed feelings.

"It's a good move for saving money, especially for short-distance travellers. But having too many toll booths might slow down the journey since we'll have to stop more frequently. I hope they ensure fast-tolling systems to keep the traffic flowing."

Four jumbos from BBP reach Japan

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

A batch of four Asian elephants from the Bannerughatta Biological Park (BBP) reached Japan on Friday.

The four elephants, Suresh, 8, Gowri, 9, Shruthi, 7, and Tulsi, 5, were transported through a Qatar Airways cargo plane from Kempegowda International Airport, Bengaluru, to Kansai International Airport, Osaka, on July 24, as part of an animal exchange programme. The jumbos will be housed in the Himeji Central Park - Safari Park.

The elephants being shifted from Kansai International Airport, Osaka, to Himeji Central Park - Safari Park.
SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

"We are pleased to announce that four elephants from BBP have reached Japan safely as part of an animal-exchange programme. The elephants are doing well and are being transported from the airport to Himeji Safari Park," the BBP said in a statement.

The BBP earlier said that the elephants were trained for the past six months for this transportation.

Tourism hub project at Roerich estate: HC notice to govt.

FROM THE COURT

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The High Court of Karnataka on Friday ordered issue of notice to the Central and State governments on a PIL petition questioning the State government's project of developing Roerich and Devika Rani Roerich Estate, Benglauru, as a tourism hub under the Central Government's Special Assistance Scheme for development of iconic tourist centres.

A Division Bench comprising Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice C.M. Joshi passed the order on the petition filed by R.R. Nagar I Care Trust, Bengaluru.

Questioning the approval for the project given by the State government in December 2024, the petitioner has contended that the development of the estate as a tourism hub is contrary to the provisions of the Roerich and Devika Rani Roerich Estate (Acquisition and Transfer) Act, 1996.

While seeking quashing of the approval granted for the project, the petitioner has sought a direction to the Roerich and Devika Rani Roerich Estate Board to conduct a scientific profiling of environmental, ecological, and wildlife factors of the estate, and to develop a plan towards object intent of the acquisition of the estate.

Also, a direction to the estate's board has been sought to hold and declare the contiguous area of the estate as a biodiversity heritage site, or propose a conservation reserve for the remaining estate.

Reducing pass percentage for SSLC examination draws mixed reactions

The move is a reflection of 'our educational bankruptcy and poor quality of education', says developmental educationalist V.P. Niranjanaradhya

Jayanth R.
BENGALURU

The State government's move to reduce the pass percentage for SSLC examination from 35 to 33 has drawn mixed reactions from stakeholders. While private school managements and parents' associations have welcomed the decision, educationists have opposed it.

The State government on Thursday issued a gazette notification reducing the pass percentage for SSLC exam from 35 to 33.

'Colonial era rule'

Developmental educationist V.P. Niranjanaradhya said the move was a reflection of "our educational bankruptcy and poor quality of education". "The 33% mark requirement for passing the SSLC exam originated during the colonial era, introduced with the first matriculation examination in 1858. The British, who had a 65 average pass percentage in their country, came up with a standard that is based on scorn, contempt, and discrimination, thinking that Indians are half as capable as their own citizens," he said. "We have now completed about 165 (1858-2025) years of education, and there is an urgent need to raise the average pass percentage to at least 50% and the minimum subject-wise marks to at least 40. Instead, we are going back," he argued.

The Associated Management of English Medium Schools in Karnataka (KAMS), a private school managements' organisation, has welcomed the move.

"The decision will provide justice to about one crore children studying under the State curriculum," asserted Shashikumar D., general secretary, KAMS. He further urged that the 125 marks allotted for first language be reduced to 100.

Discrimination

The Karnataka Private School College Parent Associations Coordination Committee also welcomed the move, saying that this notification will help eliminate the discrimination between Central curriculum and State curriculum students. And, it is of the opinion that the SSLC results will improve.

"For many years, there was discrimination in the results of CBSE and State syllabus for class X students. We have been urging the government to eliminate this discrimination for the last five years. The government has considered our plea," said Lokesh Talikatte, president of KRUPA, another private school organisation.

Pass percentage for II PU also cut to 33

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The State government issued a gazette notification reducing the pass percentage for II PU exams from 35 to 33.

As per the new rules, candidates, who secure 30% of the total marks in each subject, including marks obtained in the written examination and internal assessment or practical examination and 33% of the aggregate marks across all subjects, will be declared as passed.

In subjects with no practical examination or internal assessment, the candidate who secured a minimum 24 marks out of 80 in each subject will be declared as passed.In subjects with a practical examination or internal assessment, the candidate who secured minimum 21 marks out of 70 in the written examination will be declared as passed.

Out of the 30 marks already allotted for the practical exam, it will be held for only 20 marks, and the remaining 10 marks shall be awarded to a candidate who secured a minimum of 75% attendance in each subject.

Karnataka Bhavan row: Special Officer claims shoe attack

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

A verbal altercation at the Karnataka Bhavan escalated into serious allegations of assault, with H. Anjaneya, a Special Officer to Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, accusing C. Mohan Kumar, Assistant Resident Commissioner and Special Officer to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, of attacking him with a shoe.

Mr. Anjaneya has filed a formal complaint with Resident Commissioner Imkongla Jamir, demanding criminal proceedings against Mr. Kumar.

"I was beaten with a shoe and it has hurt my honour and dignity. Conduct a criminal trial against him (Mr. Kumar) and give me justice," Mr. Anjaneya said in his complaint.

Confirming the receipt of the complaint dated July 22, Ms. Jamir said, "We have received the complaint. Due process will be followed."

In his complaint letter, Mr. Anjaneya, a Group-B officer, alleged that Mr. Kumar had been systematically disrupting his duties.

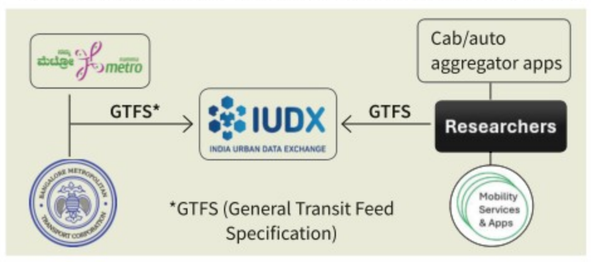
"He threatened to hit me with a shoe in the chamber of the office in front of everyone," he wrote.

The complainant also expressed concern about his safety while performing duties as Special Officer to the Deputy Chief Minister. The complaint also referenced Mr. Kumar's alleged past conduct, claiming: "If you look into the service books in the past, he has beaten M.M. Joshi and not given respect to senior officers and behaved with ego as Special Officer on duty for CM."

GTFS has transformed how people navigate urban transit systems, says IISc scientist

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The use of General Transit Feed Specification (GTFS), which has now become a global standard for public transport, has transformed how people navigate urban transit systems, said Raghu Krishnapuram, senior scientist at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) and co-founder of the India Urban Data Exchange (IUDX).



Namma Transit feature

Speaking at the launch of the Namma Transit feature by cab and auto aggregator 'Namma Yatri' on Friday, Mr. Krishnapuram said, "Open and interoperable data layers turn buses, metros, and autorickshaws into one seamless graph. When data talks, congestion quits." Highlighting how such platforms make infrastructure more intuitive and accessible, Mr. Krishnapuram said that the Namma Transit feature offers an integrated app experience by bringing together metro, auto, and cab services, enabling smoother multimodal travel in Bengaluru.

As part of the #EnRoute Innovation Challenge supported by World Resources Institute, India, Mercedes-Benz Research and Development India and Villgro, Namma Yatri developed this new feature. Bengaluru has now joined a select group of cities using the IUDX platform to publish GTFS data feeds from both BMTC and BMRCL. Namma Transit, currently available to a select group of users and set for a wider rollout in the coming week, provides real-time journey planning across different modes of transport.

"The app offers live tracking, platform details, and timely prompts to change modes or exit at the correct stop," said Shan M.S., co-founder of Namma Yatri.

At the event, MP for Bengaluru South Tejasvi Surya unveiled the Mobility Blueprint 2030, prepared by Namma Yatri, which sets ambitious goals including a 70% public transport mode share, halving commute times and emissions, and building a robust multimodal infrastructure through collaboration with the private sector.

'Address traffic issues'

Mr. Surya said, "Bengaluru needs a dedicated transport manifesto to address its unique traffic issues. Shared autos and cabs are an economic necessity, but they are unfortunately banned here. We must rethink this." He further advocated for allowing private operators to run buses in Bengaluru to address the shortage in BMTC services. "The BMTC alone cannot handle the city's growing transport demands. Private bus operators must be part of the solution," he said.

'Make multi-level car parking facility operational soon'

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner M. Maheshwar Rao on Monday directed South Zone BBMP officials to open the newly built multi-level car parking facility at Gandhi Bazaar at the earliest.

The facility at Gandhi Bazaar is built under the Smart City initiative at a cost of ₹22 crore. With G+4 floors, the facility includes 50 commercial shops and has a space for car parking from the first floor to the fourth floor, with each floor having a capacity to accommodate 31 vehicles.

Street vendors

Further, he inspected Gandhi Bazaar and instructed officials to provide street vendors with standardised umbrellas to enhance the locality's visual appeal.

'Burials' case: SP writes to DGP seeking to opt out of SIT

The Hindu Bureau
MANGALURU

C.A. Simon, Superintendent of Police, Directorate of Civil Rights Enforcement (DCRE), Dakshina Kannada, has chosen to opt out of the Special Investigation Team (SIT) that is probing the alleged burial of bodies in Dharmasthala.

In a recent letter to Director-General and Inspector-General of Police M.A. Saleem, Mr. Simon stated that he completed the law course at SDM College and his association with it should not be possibly viewed as influencing the probe.

Therefore, he wanted to be kept out of SIT.

Mr. Simon was earlier the Superintendent of Police, Lokayukta, Dakshina Kannada, before his transfer as Superintendent of Police, DCRE, Dakshina Kannada.

‘23% rise in women’s employment in city after Shakti’

Report flags challenges around first- and last-mile connectivity; Karnataka ‘best’ among five States in terms of linking free public transport to employment gains for women

Darshan Devaiah B.P.
BENGALURU

A 23% jump in women’s employment in Bengaluru and a 21% increase in Hubballi-Dharwad have been recorded following the implementation of Karnataka’s Shakti scheme, which offers free bus travel to women, according to a new study.

The report highlights Karnataka as the best-performing State among five-studied States, in terms of linking free public transport to employment gains for women. The findings come from a new report titled ‘Beyond Free Rides: A Multi-State Assessment of Women’s Bus Fare Subsidy schemes in Urban India’, commissioned by the Sustainable Mobility Network and conducted by Nikore Associates.

The report is based on over 2,500 surveys, focus group discussions, and key informant interviews conducted across 10 cities in Delhi, Karnataka, Kerala, Maharashtra, and West Bengal, according to the study. In Karnataka, nearly 27% of women in both Bengaluru and Hubballi-Dharwad reported switching to buses because of the scheme, while many said they now travel more frequently and farther for work, education, and other essential needs, the study claims.

Key findings from the ‘Beyond Free Rides’ report

Cities surveyed 10 cities across Delhi, Karnataka, Kerala, Maharashtra, and West Bengal	Total surveys conducted Over 2,500, and focus group discussions and key informant interviews
Top employment impact ■ Bengaluru: 23% increase ■ Hubballi-Dharwad: 21% increase	Women switching to bus post scheme ■ Bengaluru: 26.9% ■ Hubballi-Dharwad: 27.6%
Major benefits Increased mobility, job access, confidence, and longer trips	Key challenges Poor first-last-mile connectivity, safety concerns, fleet limitations
Recommendations Fleet expansion, gender-sensitive staffing, CCTV, lighting, responsive helplines, integration with last-mile options

Source: Beyond Free Rides: A multi-State assessment of women’s bus fare subsidy schemes in urban India

Mitali Nikore, founder and chief economist of Nikore Associates, said, “The Shakti scheme is enabling more frequent travel, longer trips, and better access to essential services, especially for women who were previously limited by cost. Karnataka’s experience shows what’s possible when intention meets inclusive access.”

‘Met primary objective’

Speaking about the findings, Minister for Transport Ramalinga Reddy said, “The primary objective of the Shakti scheme is to empower women, and the increase in women’s employment highlighted in the study is an encouraging sign.”

“I have observed that since the scheme was introduced, a large number of women, particularly from lower-middle and middle-income families, have been using the free bus service to commute for work. Many have found jobs in sectors such as healthcare, hospitality, manufacturing, retail, and domestic services, among others,” Mr. Reddy told The Hindu.

Persistent challenges

However, the report flags persistent challenges, particularly around first-and-last-mile connectivity. Many women living in peripheral urban areas continue to depend on autorickshaws or other paid options to reach bus stop, costs that eat into their savings and limit the impact of the fare-free scheme.

Safety remains another key barrier. Despite rising bus usage, less than half of women in Bengaluru and Hubballi-Dharwad reported feeling safe while commuting. Issues cited include harassment, overcrowding, poor lighting, and lack of staffing at bus stops.

To improve the effectiveness of the Shakti scheme and others like it, the report recommends: fleet expansion to meet rising demand, gender-sensitive staffing and training of transport workers, installation of safety infrastructure like CCTV cameras, lighting, and responsive helplines, and better integration with first-mile and last-mile options.

From June 11, 2023, to July 24, 2025, the Shakti scheme enabled over 508 crore trips for women passengers to travel free of cost across the four State transport undertakings – Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation, Bengaluru Metropolitan Transport Corporation, North Western Karnataka Road Transport Corporation, and Kalyana Karnataka Road Transport Corporation. The ticket value of women passengers travelled is ₹12,881 crore.

5 new Volvo Airavat Club Class 2.0 buses flagged off

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) on Friday launched five new Volvo Airavat Club Class 2.0 luxury buses, further expanding its premium fleet on key intercity routes.

Minister for Transport Ramalinga Reddy flagged off the buses at the KSRTC Central Office here.

According to KSRTC, these new-generation buses, a continuation of the 20 buses flagged off by the Chief Minister in December 2024, will operate on the Bengaluru-Tirupati (one bus), Mangaluru-Bengaluru (two buses), and Mysuru-Mantralaya (two buses) routes.

Welfare initiatives

Mr. Reddy also launched welfare initiatives for the employees’ families.

Ex-official of ED found guilty in graft case

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) special court here convicted Lalit Bazad, a former officer at the Directorate of Enforcement (ED), of accepting a bribe of ₹5 lakh from the director of a Mumbai-based finance firm.

Bazad, who was on deputation to the ED in Bengaluru from the Central Goods and Services Tax and Central Excise Department, Chennai, in 2021, was found guilty of exploiting his official position to coerce the businessman into paying a bribe.

The special court ordered Bazad to undergo simple imprisonment for three years and to pay a fine of ₹5 lakh under Section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. He has also been sentenced to undergo one year of simple imprisonment and to pay a fine of ₹50,000 under Section 384 of the IPC, which deals with extortion. According to sources, Bazad issued a summon in February, 2021, to Mikhil Innani, director of a Mumbai-based company, in connection with a probe related to the alleged Chinese loan app scam.

During his appearance at the ED’s Bengaluru office, Innani was threatened with legal complications. On February 9, 2021, the bribe was delivered in Bengaluru by Harish Innani, the complainant’s cousin, at Levels Pub and Kitchen in J.P. Nagar. The transaction was facilitated by a staff member of the pub and was captured on the establishment’s CCTV camera. The footage, along with other evidence, was submitted by the CBI during the trial.

During the trial, the court found that Bazad had misused his official position by dishonestly inducing the complainant through threats and coercion. The CBI had filed a charge sheet on December 20, 2021.

Rowdy sheeter murder: CID likely to take over case today

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The Bengaluru police have arrested 16 people in connection with the murder of rowdy sheeter Shivaprakash in Bharathinagar last week, while two more, including the prime suspect Jagadish, is still at large.

Given the case has been transferred to the Criminal Investigation Department (CID), all the 16 were produced and remanded in judicial custody on Friday. The CID is expected to take over the case files on Saturday. It will also ask for police custody of required suspects after commencing investigation. Shivakumar, 44, was brutally hacked to death by armed assailants near his house on Avenue Road in Bharathinagar on July 15.

A checklist every homebuyer should know

Think of professional property inspection not as an expense, but as necessary protection for your investment journey in buying a home

Saurabh Tyagi

The decision to buy a home in India is a significant one – often a lifelong aspiration accompanied by a substantial financial commitment. As exciting as the thrill of a new place and a shiny brochure can be, the true condition of a home often lies in what you don't see. This is where a professional property inspection becomes invaluable – uncovering issues that could undermine your vision of the ideal home. Far more than a quick walk-through, an inspection assesses how structurally sound and systemically healthy the property is, providing you with the insights needed to make informed decisions.

Structural integrity

So, what exactly does a property inspection reveal? Think of it as a full-body checkup for the building, beginning with its bones. A qualified inspector carefully examines the walls, ceilings, columns, and beams for cracks, bowing, or any form of distortion. This goes beyond just looking beneath a fresh coat of paint – they assess hairline fractures, deeper cracks, and signs of uneven settling, especially important in areas prone to seismic activity or unstable soil.

GETTY IMAGES/ISTOCKPHOTO

Dampness is another widespread issue in Indian homes, owing to monsoon rains and potential plumbing leaks. Stains, flaking paint, musty smells, or white salt deposits (efflorescence) on the walls are all red flags. Not only can water penetration weaken the structure, but it can also lead to health risks, particularly from mould growth.

Systems check

The inspection then moves on to the essential systems that make a house liveable. Electrical wiring is checked for safety and compliance. Ageing cables, poor earthing, overcrowded circuits, and badly fitted switches and sockets can all pose serious fire hazards. The inspector will examine the main distribution board (MDB), assess whether the sanctioned load is sufficient for modern appliances, and check if safety devices such as miniature circuit breakers (MCBs) and earth leakage circuit breakers (ELCBs) are functional.

Plumbing – often a major concern – is thoroughly assessed. Water pressure at all taps is tested, drainage from sinks and bathtubs is monitored for blockages or reverse flow, and hidden leaks are traced through signs like damp patches or unexpectedly high water bills. The condition of overhead tanks, sumps, and pipelines is also reviewed, as poor maintenance can lead to contamination and water supply failures.

Beyond the basics

At the property, the inspector checks the roof or ceiling for leaks or deflection in the waterproofing layer. Floors are examined for uneven tiles, cracks in the concrete, or loose sections that might suggest a compromised subfloor. Windows and doors are tested to ensure they open and close properly, their frames are aligned, and they seal tightly.

Ventilation and natural light are also considered, as their absence can affect comfort and health. The inspector looks for signs of termite infestation (such as mud tubes or hollow-sounding wood), rodent droppings, and other pest activity that could cause extensive damage. External areas such as balconies, terraces, compound walls, and shared spaces in housing societies are inspected for water stagnation, safety hazards, or signs of neglect.

In the end, a professional property inspection in India is much more than a checklist of faults – it's an independent and unbiased evaluation that gives you a clear understanding of the property's actual condition. It demystifies technical aspects and equips you with solid data to negotiate a fair price, plan for repairs, or even walk away from a poor investment.

It transforms the emotional leap of buying a home into a measured, informed step. Skipping this crucial stage might save a few thousand rupees upfront, but discovering structural damage, chronic leaks, faulty wiring, or pest infestations later can cost you lakhs – and peace of mind. Think of a professional property inspection not as an expense, but as a smart safeguard for your home-buying journey.

Centre, State not on the same page on urea supply situation

Siddaramaiah writes to Centre, complaining that Karnataka is yet to get 1,65,541 tonnes of urea from its total share; in its reply, the Union Ministry says the actual supplies so far are much higher than the pro rata requirement

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The reported shortage of urea in Karnataka has triggered a fresh round of disagreement between the State and the Centre.

While Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has written to the Centre, complaining that the State is yet to get 1,65,541 tonnes of urea from its total share, the Centre has, in its reply, stated that its actual supplies so far are much higher than the pro rata requirement.

Key input: The Chief Minister has said the Centre allocated 11,17,000 tonnes of urea to Karnataka for the kharif season, out of which 5,16,959 tonnes has been supplied till date. FILE PHOTO

CM's letter

The tussle unfolded on Friday as the Chief Minister, in a letter to Union Minister for Health and Family Welfare and Chemicals and Fertilisers J.P. Nadda, said the Centre had allocated 11,17,000 tonnes of urea to Karnataka for kharif 2025, out of which the quantity supplied till date was 5,16,959 tonnes. But the State's requirement of urea from April to July was 6,80,655 tonnes, he pointed out, and urged the Centre to immediately release the remaining 1,65,541 tonnes.

His letter came close on the heels of protests by farmers of north Karnataka, who are queuing up in front of fertilizer shops seeking supply of adequate quantity of urea.

In response, the Union Department of Fertilisers issued an official release, maintaining that it had ensured the timely and adequate availability of 8.73 lakh tonnes of urea as against the pro rata requirement of 6.3 lakh tonnes to Karnataka so far, during the ongoing kharif season.

"During the same period, the State has recorded sales of 7.08 lakh tonnes – much higher than the pro rata requirement," it said. However, it also said that the department "continues to closely monitor the situation and coordinate with the State government to ensure Karnataka's farmers have timely access to urea throughout the kharif season".

Increased area

Earlier, in his letter, Mr. Siddaramaiah said, "The State received monsoon early this year and at the same time, the area coverage under different crops has increased, compared with previous years. Further, some of the fertilizer companies have expressed their inability to supply urea fertilizer as per the allocation by the Government of India."

Mr. Siddaramaiah said, "The early release of water in command areas of the Tungabhadra, the Cauvery, and the Krishna has resulted in early sowing activity. Area under maize, which is a higher fertilizer-consuming crop, has increased by two lakh hectares, and the area under pulses has decreased when compared with previous years."

About 13,000 hectares of pre-kharif areas had been sown again, the Chief Minister said.

"On account of these factors, there is a spurt in the demand for urea fertilizer and the shortage is creating unrest among farmers," he added.

High Court stays FIR against BJP legislator

Ravikumar was accused of making derogatory remarks against Chief Secretary

The High Court of Karnataka on Friday stayed the first information report (FIR) registered against BJP MLC N. Ravikumar based on a complaint by a woman alleging that he had made derogatory remarks against Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh.

Justice S.R. Krishna Kumar passed the interim order on a petition filed by Mr. Ravikumar. While staying the FIR, the court said it would assign the reason later due to paucity of time to dictate order in the courtroom.

The FIR was registered based on a complaint lodged by Nagarathna, a city-based social worker. The complaint was lodged based on the news telecast on TV channels, alleging that Mr. Ravikumar had made derogatory remarks during a BJP demonstration near the Vidhana Soudha recently.

However, Mr. Ravikumar has already issued a statement denying making any such statement against the Chief Secretary as was alleged in the complaint.

During the hearing, it was pointed out to the court that the FIR was registered not on a complaint by the affected person but by a third party merely based on news report aired on television channels.

Farmers complain of urea shortage; officials advise them against panic buying, overuse

Agriculture Minister has also appealed to farmers against stocking up in excess or overusing

Amid protests over the "rationing" of urea and panic buying, contradicting versions about the fertilizer's availability are emerging in the State, particularly from north and central Karnataka.

While copious rains had brought smiles on the faces of farmers, reported non-availability of urea seems to have left them worried, resulting in panic buying in some districts. Agriculture Minister N. Cheluvarayaswamy has appealed to farmers against stocking up in excess or overusing.

Reports of altercations between officials and farmers and protests by farmers demanding additional supplies have come from districts such as Kalaburagi, Raichur, Haveri, Gadag, Koppal, and Davangere. However, officials have a contradicting version, and they say they have already received more than the required qunatity till July-end.

What farmers say

However, farmers in Kalaburagi and Raichur districts continue to complain of a shortage. "Many farmers who came to urban centres to buy fertilizers had to return empty-handed," said Sharanabasappa Mamshetti, district president of the Karnataka Prantha Raitha Sangha. Farmer Sunil Guttedar of Nagur village in Kamalapur taluk of Kalaburagi echoed the same concern, mentioning his futile visits to Raita Samparka Kendra, private vendors at Kamalapur, Mahagaon Cross, and even the APMC yard in Kalaburagi.

Chamarasa Malipatil, State honorary president of the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha, said the shortage extended beyond urea. "We are not getting DAP or complex fertilizers either. Vendors are coercing farmers to purchase substandard alternatives. On insisting on urea, they are being forced to pay up to ₹200 extra per bag," he alleged.

However, Samad Patel, Joint Director of Agriculture, Kalaburagi, negated any such shortage. "As against the demand of 20,735 tonnes of urea till July-end in Kalaburagi, we have received 19,448 tonnes. Another 600 tonnes is expected by Saturday. Following media reports about shortage, dedicated teams have been deployed to monitor distribution," he said. Joint Director of Agriculture in Dharwad Manjunath Antaravalli made a similar statement. "Till July-end, our requirement was 15,200 tonnes of urea, and we have already received 23,000 tonnes. We have the required stock and are expecting another 1,000 tonnes by Monday," he said.

Why more demand

According to him, the additional demand is due to copious rains and also because of "unwarranted" additional application of urea. "Excess usage of urea is bad. Two or three applications are being made unnecessarily by farmers. Where they required one bag, they are using two or three bags. We are trying to educate and convince farmers on the adverse impact of using excess urea," he told The Hindu.

Congress finalises heads of 22 boards, corporations

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and his deputy D.K. Shivakumar have reportedly finalised the names of 22 legislators and party leaders for the posts of chairperson of the government-owned boards and corporations.

The names were finalised after a meeting with All India Congress Committee (AICC) general secretary in charge of Karnataka Randeep Singh Surjewala in Delhi on Thursday night. The list will be made public after a couple of days, party sources said.

Equal preference

Meanwhile, sources said both party MLAs and leaders had been given equal preference in the appointments. After Mr. Surjewala's meetings with Ministers and MLAs in Bengaluru, sources said the names suggested by Ministers/legislators had been given priority in the appointments.

Till now, the government has appointed 42 legislators as chairpersons of various boards and corporations. However, directors and members of boards/ corporations have not yet been appointed.

Following the AICC general secretary's meeting with legislators, the government released ₹50 crore to each MLA for undertaking development works in their respective constituencies.

Sources said candidates for the four vacant seats in the Karnataka Legislative Council had also not been finalised. The names would be finalised after senior leader Rahul Gandhi vets the list in August.

Earlier in Delhi, Mr. Siddaramaiah participated in the 'Bhagidari Nyay Sammelan' of the other backward classes.

'108' ambulance staff threaten to strike work

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

Demanding their work be restored to the earlier two-shift system, ambulance staff working under the '108-Arogya Kavacha' scheme have threatened to go on strike from August 1 if the government does not consider it.

Addressing presspersons here on Friday, Paramashiva and Chandranna from the Karnataka State 108 Arogya Kavacha Employees' Association, said that around 3,500 employees had been forced to work with a salary reduction in an eight-hour three-shift system. "As per a Government Order, the 12-hour two-shift system was cancelled, and from January 1 this year, an eight-hour three-shift system was introduced, along with a salary reduction," Mr. Chandranna said. "Due to this change, staff working in the 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. shifts are facing difficulties as there is no proper transport facilities during these hours. Moreover, citing reduced working hours, our salaries have been cut almost by half," he said.

Currently, 33% of the staff under the scheme are women. They, along with other staff working in rural areas, are particularly affected by the new three-shift system due to lack of transport.

"We want the government to provide adequate transport and basic facilities for those in the 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. shifts to reach their workplace and get back home. We also want our salaries to be increased. If that is not possible, the previous two-shift system should be reinstated," he said.

Convict escapes Kannur jail, held after four-hour search

Govindachamy, convicted for rape and murder, was found clinging to a rope inside a well; a local court remanded him to 14 days' custody; incident raises concerns over prison security in Kerala

The Hindu Bureau
KANNUR

In a dramatic pre-dawn search operation that lasted for over four hours, the Kerala Police on Friday arrested Govindachamy, alias Govindaswamy, convicted in a 2011 rape-and-murder case of a 23-year-old woman, after he escaped from a high-security block of the Kannur Central Jail.

The first signs of escape were noticed when the police found a makeshift rope, made out of pieces of clothing, dangling over the southern wall of the jail. According to the police, Govindachamy, who was serving a life sentence, escaped from his cell around 1.15 a.m. and managed to slip out of the compound by 4.30 a.m. The Kannur Town police were alerted around 6.30 a.m. and two search squads were deployed. A dog squad led the search party to the vicinity of the District Congress Committee office in Talap, about 3 kilometres from the jail.

A tip-off from a local resident, Vinoj, who works in a private firm, and an auto driver, enabled the police to zero in on the fugitive. "He matched the description and looked suspicious. When we called his name, he jumped into a nearby compound. We alerted the police immediately," said Vinoj.

Busted again: Police personnel bring Govindachamy, who escaped the Kannur Central Jail early on Friday, to the Kannur Town police station. S.K. MOHAN

The arrest was made after M. Unnikrishnan, a staff at the National Sample Survey Office, found someone hiding inside the well on the office premises. "Upon being told that Govindachami was seen nearby, I checked the well," he said. The man was clinging to the rope inside the well. "He threatened me of dire consequences if I alerted anyone, but I immediately informed the police," Mr. Unnikrishnan added.

Govindachamy was soon taken into custody and brought to the Kannur Town police station. After a medical check-up at the Government District Hospital, he was produced before the Judicial First Class Magistrate Court, where he was remanded in 14 days' custody in the Central Jail.

An internal probe has raised serious concerns over prison security. Jail sources confirmed that Govindachamy used an axe blade or similar metal, allegedly found on the prison premises, to cut the bars of his cell door.

To conceal the damage, he tied the bars using ropes and strips of cloth, initially used to keep cats off the cell.

Cellmate mum

A remand prisoner who shared the cell reportedly could not provide much information about the incident. Authorities suspect that the escape was premeditated. During inquiry, he reportedly said he had been planning the escape for a long time as he was tired of life in jail.

Kannur District Police Chief P. Nidhinraj described the incident as a 'well-planned escape.' "He collected remand prisoners' clothes on the premises to prepare the makeshift rope and chose a part of the compound wall near the water tank to scale," Mr. Nidhinraj said.

On whether Govindachamy received inside help, he said no such information had emerged yet but did not rule out the possibility. Following a probe by the Deputy Inspector General of Prison, three prison officials were suspended for negligence. They are Deputy Prison Officer Rejish A.K., Assistant Prison Officers Sanjay S. and Akhil Charith.

GP member who planned husband's murder arrested

BENGALURU

Five others who allegedly orchestrated the plan held

The death of a former panchayat member of Makali village in Bengaluru South (formerly Ramanagara) district, initially believed to be a suicide, has turned out to be a murder allegedly orchestrated by his wife.

Lokesh, 45, was found dead off Kanva Road in Ramanagara on June 23, with a poison bottle lying next to him, raising suspicion of suicide. The initial statements from the family members, including Lokesh's wife, Chandrakala, a member of the Makali Gram Panchayat, led to police filing an unnatural death report, as everyone claimed that Lokesh had taken multiple loans.

However, police found some inconsistencies in the crime scene – while there was a poison bottle next to Lokesh, its lid was missing, and one slipper of Lokesh was untraced.

An officer involved in the case told The Hindu that they found something amiss while questioning Chandrakala, and decided to check her call records.

"On the day of Lokesh's death, Chandrakala had called a person named Yogesh multiple times. When we checked Yogesh's call record, he was in communication with one Santosh, who was earlier arrested in a murder case," the officer said, adding that they went after Santosh after that.

According to the police, Santosh's network dump revealed that he was around the crime scene on the day of the murder. Not just him – three more people, Shivaling, Surya, and Chandan, who were on Santosh's contact list, were also present at the crime scene. Police detained Chandrakala and grilled her, reportedly leading to her confession. Subsequently, the police arrested all five men.

"Chandrakala used to stay mostly in Bengaluru along with her two children, while Lokesh visited weekly. She used to travel to M.K. Doddi only when there was a panchayat meeting," the officer quoted earlier said, adding that the couple often fought with each other over suspicion that both of them had affairs. Chandrakala called her friend Yogesh and shared her ordeal, following which, they allegedly decided to eliminate Lokesh, the officer said.

Subsequently, Yogesh allegedly contacted his schoolmate Santosh and hired him to murder Lokesh for ₹5 lakh. They all allegedly met and hatched a plan to make the murder appear like a suicide.

On the night of June 23, when Lokesh was returning from Bengaluru, Yogesh got his whereabouts, and shared it with Santosh and the gang. Santosh and others intercepted Lokesh near Kanva Road, forcefully fed him poison, according to the police.

Yesterday

In observation made at 4.00 p.m., Greater Noida, Uttar Pradesh recorded an overall air quality index (AQI) score of 240 indicating an unhealthy level of pollution. In contrast, Shillong, Meghalaya recorded a healthy AQI score of 7

Air Quality Code: Poor | Moderate | Good (Readings indicate average AQI)

SO_2: Sulphur Dioxide. Short-term exposure can harm the respiratory system, making breathing difficult. It can affect visibility by reacting with other air particles to form haze and stain culturally important objects such as statues and monuments.

NO_2: Nitrogen Dioxide. Aggravates respiratory illness, causes haze to form by reacting with other air particles, causes acid rain, pollutes coastal waters.

CO: Carbon monoxide. High concentration in air reduces oxygen supply to critical organs like the heart and brain. At very high levels, it can cause dizziness, confusion, unconsciousness and even death.

PM2.5 & PM10: Particulate matter pollution can cause irritation of the eyes, nose and throat, coughing, chest tightness and shortness of breath, reduced lung function, irregular heartbeat, asthma attacks, heart attacks and premature death in people with heart or lung disease

Give and take

The India-U.K. trade deal may set the template for the EU and U.S. deals

The India-United Kingdom Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA), signed by the two countries on Thursday, is a good example of the give and take between two large economies of comparable size. While the U.K. has agreed to provide India duty-free access to about 99% of its tariff lines, it has been more conservative when it comes to the movement of professionals. It has set an annual quota of just 1,800 visas for niche professional roles such as yoga instructors and classical musicians, and the agreement falls short of making commitments on broader visa categories such as business visitors or IT professionals. This was something India had been keen on. On the other hand, while India has opened about 90% of its tariff lines for duty-free import from the U.K., it has kept key agricultural products such as dairy products, apples, oats, and edible oils out of the deal – key demands of the U.K. Similarly, while India has committed to reducing duties on automobile imports by a substantial 100 percentage points over time, these are subject to a graded quota over the next decade, which gives the domestic industry time to adjust. A sign of a good deal is when both sides walk away happy but not satisfied. In any case, such bilateral deals should not be viewed as a zero-sum game where one side's loss is another's gain. Enhancing bilateral trade is in both countries' interests, especially at a time when the world's biggest trading powers are raising tariff and non-tariff barriers.

The U.K. is a relatively small trading partner for India, but therein lies ample scope for growth. While at a macro scale the gains might initially be limited, the sector-wise increases have the potential to be significant. Sectors such as agriculture, textiles, leather and chemicals are all set to see quick gains. There is potential for longer term benefits too. The U.K. is a major gateway to Europe, which is a much bigger trading partner of India's. Goods destined for Europe could be routed through the U.K., and the duty-free arrangement will likely enhance this flow. Companies in other countries that already export to the U.K. will also start viewing India more favourably as an investment destination so as to take advantage of the duty-free access. It is now up to the government to help Indian exporters scale up and compete internationally. Another important consideration is that such a deal sets the template for future ones. The general trend is that the bigger the economy being negotiated with, the bigger the concessions given. The United States and the European Union will now want more from India than what it has conceded to the U.K.

Healing Manipur

Fragile peace demands political actors pursue genuine reconciliation

The imposition of President's Rule, once a frequent and politically motivated tool of the Centre, has declined considerably since the 1990s. This welcome shift is a consequence of S.R. Bommai, the landmark judgment, the rising influence of regional parties in national politics, and public revulsion to its misuse. In recent years, its application has become rare, reserved for genuine constitutional breakdown or severe internal security challenges, such as in Manipur. On Friday, President's Rule was extended there by another six months, from August 13. But few would contest the extension, as the Centre is struggling to find a durable solution to the ethnic conflict. Following the resignation of N. Biren Singh and the fall of the BJP government, there has been a discernible but fragile calm. A crackdown on militant groups that had operated with impunity has reduced open violence, and some families displaced since May 2023 have begun to return home. However, these positive developments are overshadowed by the unbridged and deep-seated ethnic schism between the Kuki-Zo and Meitei communities. The landscape of Manipur is still carved up by buffer zones, rigidly segregating communities. The political chasm is just as stark: Kuki-Zo groups are resolute in their demand for a separate administration, while hardline Meitei organisations persist with a narrative that brands fellow citizens as "outsiders".

Administrative steps, particularly those that reiterate de-weaponisation and a defanging of militant groups acting for ethnic interests, must continue. They not only break the aura of impunity with which these groups function but will also encourage moderates to raise their voices for reconciliation. During Mr. Singh's tenure, prominent civil society activists seeking to halt the conflict by critiquing the biased nature of governance were hounded. But the administrative measures to improve the rule of law must be supplemented by political gestures. The BJP enjoyed support in the valley and the hills when it was elected, but has been unable to bridge the ethnic hostility. This is largely because the party's national leadership has shown little inclination to treat the issue urgently, leaving it to civil servants and security forces to tackle the problem. While the continuation of President's Rule might seem inevitable in Manipur, its success should not be measured by the absence of violence alone. The Centre's responsibility is to foster political conditions to bridge the ethnic divide, but that responsibility must be shared. Political parties and civil society groups must defy the hardliners and begin the painstaking work of reconciliation. The future of a peaceful Manipur will be written by the initiative of committed political actors willing to transcend ethnic divisions and work toward the genuine healing of their fractured society.

Kargil, Pahalgam and a revamp of the security strategy

Rajeev Agarwal

is a Senior Research Consultant at the Chintan Research Foundation, New Delhi

It is the 26th anniversary of the Kargil war that was fought between India and Pakistan in the icy heights of Kashmir, but the memories are still fresh. It was also the first 'live televised' conflict, which brought the war (May 3-July 26, 1999) into the living rooms of India. Victory was hard fought and won through the sheer grit, the determination and the love for 'Bharat' that the Indian armed forces showed. India not only evicted the Pakistani forces but also forced Pakistan to withdraw and seek a ceasefire.

All this sounds familiar and similar to what happened recently. On April 22, 2025, Pakistan-based terrorists launched a terror attack on innocent civilians at a popular tourist spot in Pahalgam, Kashmir, killing 26 tourists (singling out only the men). What followed next was the most devastating punishment that India has ever delivered on Pakistan's terror network in the form of Operation Sindoor (May 7-10, 2025). In four days of pin-pointed and extremely effective strikes, the Indian military struck nine terror bases across Pakistan and took out 11 military air-bases in Pakistan, bringing Pakistan to its knees in a matter of 96 hours. And if reports and analysis are to be believed, India's BrahMos missile strike on the Nur Khan Base in Pakistan, at the foothills of the Kirana Hills, crippled a key nuclear weapon storage facility too. Pakistan made a request for an immediate ceasefire.

If Kargil was a watershed moment for India in its conventional fighting capability, Pahalgam has set the bar against any future terror attack in India. Over two decades, India has steadily re-strategised its security policies, sending out a clear message to Pakistan and the world that India will not tolerate any future mis-adventure.

The lessons from Kargil

The context of the Kargil war was set in a period when India was tentative and vulnerable. It may be recalled that India had declared itself to be a nuclear weapon state in May 1998. India's nuclear tests prompted Pakistan too to test its nuclear devices within weeks. All of a sudden, South Asia was home to two nuclear-powered adversaries. India was threatened with economic sanctions by the western countries for having gone nuclear. In addition, India was not in a very strong position due to its weak economy and a coalition government at the Centre.

The fight against terrorism in Kashmir since 1990 and continuing insurgencies in the North-East led to the strengthening and the modernisation of India's military being put on the back burner. Kargil also happened in the backdrop of India's attempts at a reconciliation with Pakistan – Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee had travelled to Lahore in February 1999 in what became a famous bus-ride across the border. This was also the time before the 9/11 terror attack on the Twin Towers in New York (September 11, 2001) and there was hardly any support for India's fight against Pakistan-based terror in Kashmir.

> If Kargil was a watershed moment in India's conventional fighting capability, Pahalgam has set the bar against any terror attack in the future

Kargil was, therefore, a rude wakeup call for India. It was the first war between India and Pakistan after 1971 and fought under the nuclear overhang. It demonstrated that limited war was still possible even between nuclear-armed states, provided the escalation was controlled. A Kargil Review Committee was set up which made many key recommendations, laying the foundation for many structural changes that have taken place over the years. One of the most significant shortcomings highlighted was the intelligence lapse. Neither military nor civilian intelligence agencies had worked on the possibility of any large-scale military infiltration by Pakistani forces in Kargil. The absence of real-time intelligence and effective aerial surveillance led to a delayed decision making and early losses. The war also exposed serious shortcomings in terms of equipment, logistics and the operational readiness of India's armed forces. India's troops lacked the wherewithal to fight war in high altitude areas as they did not have specialised high-altitude gear, adequate artillery support, and real-time communications.

The structural changes

A number of new agencies were set up such as the Defence Intelligence Agency (DIA) in 2002 and the National Technical Research Organisation (NTRO) in 2004. Measures to strengthen coordination between the Research and Analysis Wing (RAW), the Intelligence Bureau (IB), and military intelligence wings were undertaken, leading to a revamp of the National Security Council Secretariat (NSCS) and the Joint Intelligence Committee (JIC). The appointment of a National Security Adviser (NSA) too was made a permanent fixture in the strategic decision-making hierarchy, headed by the Prime Minister. There were many other institutional and structural changes that were made in order to enhance the intelligence set up in India.

On the conventional front, the Kargil war was a timely lesson to modernise the military, in equipment and strategy. There was a clear realisation that India had few allies who would assist it in a time of war; therefore, modernisation and self-reliance had to be priorities. It led to the evolution of India's "Cold Start Doctrine", aimed at rapid mobilisation and swift, limited incursions without breaching the nuclear threshold. There was great emphasis on mountain warfare preparedness which included the raising of a Mountain Corps in the Indian Army. The war also highlighted the urgent need for joint coordination between the three wings of the armed forces, a unified command and operational coordination. Some of these have led changes such as the appointment of the Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) in 2019 and the process of setting up integrated theatre commands.

A key lesson from Kargil was the modernisation of equipment and weapon platforms, with an emphasis on home-grown technologies and self-reliance in production. The acquisition and the deployment of modern weapon platforms such as Rafale fighters, Apache attack helicopters, Chinook heavy-lift helicopters, and S-400 missile defence systems, home-grown artillery and BrahMos missiles are some of the results.

The long fight against terror

Unlike Kargil, which brought in massive changes in conventional military, India was slow in fighting terror proactively. For decades, Pakistan kept hurting India without any heavy costs to itself. Among the major terror incidents, the most important was the hijacking of an Indian Airlines flight, IC-814 on December 24, 1999, just after Kargil. In one of India's weak moments, New Delhi agreed to release dreaded terrorists.

The terror attack on Parliament, on December 13, 2001, led to a year-long mobilisation of Indian armed forces under 'Operation Parakram', but it did not result in any direct punishment to Pakistan. The 26/11 Mumbai terror attack (November 2008) – widely considered to be India's 9/11 moment – also did not lead to any punishment for Pakistan.

It was only after the Uri terror attack (September 18, 2016) that the strategy of a fight against terror began to take shape. The surgical strikes were not only a strong reply but also a statement of intent. Taking the intent further, following the terror attack on a Central Reserve Police Force convoy in Pulwama, Kashmir, on February 14, 2019, the Indian Air Force (IAF) launched strikes on a terror camp of the JeM in Balakot (February 26, 2019). This was the first time that the IAF had crossed into Pakistan airspace to launch a strike.

The recent Pahalgam attack has set a new threshold. By striking key terror locations and military assets deep into Pakistan, India has made it clear that the era of restraint and patience is over. Pakistan will have to pay a heavy price for any terror attack hereafter.

From Kargil to Pahalgam, India has had to learn many hard lessons. The good news is that India is no longer in any mood to relent. In May 2025, India's conventional military capability has displayed what it is capable of. 'Make in India' is bearing fruit, with many outstanding weapon platforms being made in India now. Fighting terror too has got a new meaning after Pahlagam. However, the Indian political and military leadership has to remain vigilant and stay ahead of the curve. There cannot be another Kargil or Pahlagam, ever.

The scientist who made 'mangroves' a buzzword

is a former Executive Director of the M.S. Swaminathan Research Foundation, and has four decades of experience in mangrove research and management

Until the late 1980s, the value of mangroves was primarily understood by the communities that lived around them and relied on them for fishery resources and their livelihoods. But today, the word "mangroves" has become a buzzword, whether in the area of disaster risk reduction in coastal areas, climate adaptation through carbon sequestration, enhancement of coastal fishery resources, or the conservation of shoreline bird sanctuaries, to name a few.

The turning point

Although the United Nations Development Programme and UNESCO initiated a regional project on mangrove research in 1988, it was in 1989 that M.S. Swaminathan proposed a leading role for mangroves in managing the impact of climate change in coastal areas. At the Climate Change and Human Responses conference in Tokyo in 1989, he explained that rising sea levels due to climate change would cause a salinisation of land and water resources in coastal areas, leading to the loss of food production and employment. A rise in the frequency of cyclones due to rising sea surface temperatures causes the loss of life, livelihoods, and natural resources. As a response, M.S. Swaminathan suggested immediate action for the sustainable management of mangrove wetlands. This was based on the principles of ecology, economics, and equity as well as research on the utilisation of mangrove genetic resources to develop new saline-tolerant crops (by transferring genes for salinity tolerance from mangroves to rice and other crops). A series of important developments found M.S. Swaminathan playing a pivotal role in mangrove restoration, conservation and management.

Thanks to M.S. Swaminathan's initiatives, the International Society for Mangrove Ecosystems (ISME) was established in 1990 in Okinawa, Japan – M.S. Swaminathan served as its Founding President till 1993.

He co-created the Charter for Mangroves and included it in the World Charter for Nature, prepared by the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development in 1992. To this day, this charter serves as a basis for mangrove conservation efforts at the global level.

> Mangrove forests, once considered to be marshy land, now occupy a central position in the coastal ecosystem and climate mitigation moves

The ISME conducted an assessment of the economic and environmental values of mangrove forests, including those in India, as well as the current state of their conservation. The ISME also organised a series of workshops on mangrove conservation and sustainable utilisation, published a manual of mangrove ecosystem restoration, and produced a World Mangrove Atlas. These activities, slowly but surely, transformed the common perception of what mangroves are: from an idea of them being marshy land waiting for conversion to other uses to their being central to a multiple-use coastal ecosystem. The ISME is promoting applied research, providing training to various stakeholders, and acting as a centre of knowledge products on mangroves.

Global infrastructure for conservation

Another vital contribution of M.S. Swaminathan was the development of the GLObal Mangrove database and Information System (GLOMIS), a searchable database on mangrove experts, research, and species, including the Mangrove Ecosystem Information Services, which focused on documenting genetic resources. In 1992, a team of scientists surveyed and evaluated 23 mangrove sites in South, Southeast Asia, and Oceania over nine countries, with scientific inputs from M.S. Swaminathan, to establish a global network of Mangrove Genetic Resource Centres. These centres are now conserved, monitored and managed as 'Protected Areas' by the respective governments.

At the national level, M.S. Swaminathan was instrumental in revolutionising India's management of mangroves. India has a long history of mangrove management, dating back to 1783. However, this period was marked by extensive clearance and reclamation of the Sundarbans mangrove forests, primarily for agriculture and settlements. The practice of clear-felling as a system of mangrove management was widespread in India from the British colonial period until 1980, when the Indian Forest (Conservation) Act was enacted.

The working plans prepared by the British, and later by the State Forest Departments of independent India, showed that attempts to restore mangroves in clear-felled areas yielded minimal results. On the other hand, local communities were blamed for the poor results. Here, researchers from the M.S. Swaminathan Research Foundation, under the guidance of M.S. Swaminathan, played a key role.

Participatory research during 1993 and in the following years, first with the Tamil Nadu Forest Department and then with other States and local communities, revealed that changes in the biophysical conditions of the mangroves, due to the clear-felling system of management, were the primary reason for their degradation rather than resource utilisation by local communities. Based on this scientific evidence, a hydro-ecological method of mangrove restoration – commonly referred to as the fishbone canal method – was developed and pilot-tested in the mangroves of Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Odisha, and West Bengal.

This method later evolved into a Joint Mangrove Management programme, which the then Ministry of Environment and Forests, evaluated in 2000 through a committee and recommended for replication in all suitable areas. This resulted in more investment by the Central and State governments for mangrove restoration and conservation. The immense role played by mangroves during the 1999 Odisha super cyclone and the 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami, in reducing the loss of life and damage to property and natural resources, paved the way for valuing large-scale restoration of mangroves, in India and globally.

Rise in mangrove cover

World Mangrove Day (July 26) is also an occasion to look at whether there has been change. The India State of Forest Report (ISFR) 2023 says that the total mangrove cover in India is 4,991.68 km^2, which accounts for 0.15% of the country's total geographical area. If one compares the ISFR 2019 to the ISFR 2023, there has been a significant increase, of 16.68 km^2, in the country's mangrove coverage.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

India-U.K. trade deal

At a time when the global economic architecture is in the throes of stress in the wake of arbitrary, impulsive and imperious salvos of fiats fired by the Trump administration, the comprehensive trade agreement between India and the United Kingdom is fresh air (Front page, "India, U.K. ink trade deal, extend framework of ties", July 25). This pact should be used as a template for similar pacts with other countries such as the United States as well as the European Union.

Women discuss their debts in Dekuli Chatti village in Darbhanga district of Bihar. SHASHI SHEKHAR KASHYAP

In Bihar, a matter of life and debt

In Bihar, increased borrowing from multiple sources, both institutional and informal lenders, has led to excessive debt burdens. Borrowers struggle to repay loans with high interest rates while dreading recovery agents, who intimidate and harass them. Sobhana K. Nair and T.C.A. Sharad Raghavan report on the lack of political thrust on bringing in any regulatory mechanism in the State that is set to go to the polls later this year

Chandra Devi, 53, holds up a loan slip, its creases more prominent than its text. It states that she borrowed a loan of ₹35,000, allegedly from RBL Bank, a private sector institution, in May 2024. "I have to repay the loan and an interest rate of do taka (2%)," Chandra declares. But the slip states that the interest rate is a hefty 25% over two years.

Chandra is sitting in a mango orchard with a group of women at Dekuli Chatti village in Darbhanga district of Bihar. Around her, children climb trees under an overcast sky. Some of them clamber to the top, others hang upside down from branches. Their mothers sit on a yellow plastic sheet spread over the grass. While watching their children's antics, they share their struggles on repaying dues. According to the 2022 caste survey of Bihar, 34% of households in the State earn ₹6,000 or less per month.

In June 2025, Piramal Enterprises, an Indian non-banking financial company (NBFC) focused on financial services, published a study. In it, they stated that the share of Indian households from economically weaker sections of society – that is, those earning ₹1-2 lakh a year – who borrowed from formal channels, such as banks and NBFCs, contracted by 4.2% between 2018-19 and 2022-23. At the same time, the share of households borrowing from informal or non-institutional sources of credit, such as money lenders, friends, families, and shopkeepers, grew by 5.8%. The data also shows that Bihar accounts for the highest share (18%) of households in India who borrow from non-institutional lenders. The study was based on data from the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy, an independent private entity that serves as an economic think tank as well as a socioeconomic database.

However, many households that borrow from non-institutional lenders also borrow from microfinance institutions, which are regulated by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), the country's central bank.

The RBI defines a microfinance loan as "a collateral-free loan given to a household having an annual income up to ₹3,00,000". According to Sa-Dhan, an RBI-approved self-regulatory body for the microfinance sector, there are 224 such institutions in India.

While loans from microfinance institutions help impoverished borrowers across India, borrowers are often unable to repay them and fall behind. They also sometimes run away, fearing that microfinance companies will demand repayment using strong-arm tactics. As a result, many households remain trapped in a cycle of debt.

When loans become nightmares

Chandra belongs to the Musahar community. Musahars are among the 18 Scheduled Castes in Bihar who were recognised as Mahadalits by Chief Minister Nitish Kumar in 2007. They are socially and economically the most backward among Scheduled Castes.

Chandra says she doesn't know the name of the bank from which she borrowed a loan; instead, she identifies it by its location – Donar, a locality in Darbhanga. "I was asked to give my Aadhaar card, nothing else," she says, about the process of securing the loan.

> Since 2022, I have been given 1,100 households to track. At least 450 families who defaulted on their loans have disappeared
>
> MAHESH
> Recovery agent

The slip she holds says the loan was taken for 'agriculture-livestock/diary/poultry/cattle' purposes, but Chandra, the mother of two daughters and a son, says she borrowed it for her older daughter's wedding.

Before the wedding, the groom's family demanded a motorcycle as part of dowry. Chandra borrowed money from the village mahajan (money lender). When that didn't suffice, she went to a women's self help group (SHG). Finally, she secured a loan, allegedly from RBL Bank.

As Chandra's husband has been out of work for several months due to an illness, her family depends entirely on the amount her son sends home. "He sells apples in Kolkata, so he cannot always send money." she says. "After all, everything is so expensive these days."

Chandra also worries that she has a teenage daughter who will "soon be of marriageable age."

Punam Devi, 42, who is also from the Musahar community, keeps two documents close to her chest. One shows that she took a loan of ₹40,000, allegedly from Pyramid Finserve, an emerging NBFC, in July 2024. Punam borrowed the loan for her younger son, who had been diagnosed with meningitis. The other document shows that she borrowed another loan of ₹75,000, allegedly from Utkarsh Small Finance Bank Limited, a commercial bank focused on "providing banking and financial services, particularly to underserved and unserved sections of the population, primarily in rural and semi-urban areas." This loan, borrowed to pay for treatment of her husband who lost a leg in an accident, was cleared on March 23 this year with an interest rate of 28%, as per the document.

Punam says she had to pay installments every fortnight. After her husband's accident, the family's income is now nearly negligible, making it all the more challenging for them to repay the loan.

Both men were treated at private hospitals. "We don't get admission in government hospitals," she says. The other women nod along.

Parvati Devi, 38, says her husband works in Bengaluru, Karnataka, as a daily wage labourer. He left 15 days ago and will return only next year.

"We had to borrow money for our eldest daughter's wedding," says Parvati, who also belongs to the Musahar community. "We borrowed nearly ₹1.5 lakh from the local money lender four years ago. Unable to repay the loan, I took three loans from three microfinance institutions." Her total liability amounted to ₹1.35 lakh and she had to pay monthly installments of about ₹7,000.

'Agents never fail to turn up'

Chandra, Punam, and Parvati sought loans for weddings or for treatments in hospitals and struggled to repay the amounts. Many of these women accessed microfinance institutions through group lending. In this process, borrowers form small groups and the members of the group are jointly liable for each other's loans.

Banks appoint agents to recover overdue loan payments or outstanding debts. The women say recovery agents never fail to turn up, and the amount of money their families have is usually never enough to meet the final sum.

This week, a recovery agent stood at Parvati's door, threatening and abusing her the entire day. "I was not scared," Parvati says. "I shouted at him as well. He said he would file a case against me. I told him, so be it." The recovery agent left only after she managed to put together the amount, which fell short of ₹1,000, she says.

Mina Devi is due to pay her monthly instalment of ₹2,450, but she is ₹50 short. "He (the recovery agent) won't take the amount until I give him the full amount," she complains. Mina worries about his response. "Last time he told me, 'Why don't you go to the road and beg? And in the process if you die, the loan will be waived off.'" According to the RBI, when a borrower dies and there is no collateral, the lender can recover the amount from the legal heirs, and only up to the limit of what the heirs inherit.

Mina's husband spends at least six months working in the fields in Punjab, so she has to deal with the agents on her own. "When a male member of the family is not around, the agent hangs around for hours," she says.

Rekha Devi has three loans to repay, with the total liability amounting to about ₹1 lakh. She says, "He (agent) asked me why I don't sell my body if I have no money to pay the instalment."

The women say the agents often threaten to take away possessions they have painstakingly collected over the years – beds, pressure cookers, gas cylinders, even the odd plastic chair.

In Somini Devi's case, this became a reality. Somini's husband is no more. She has six children – three daughters and three sons – and all of them are married. She says she has been left alone to repay the loans she borrowed for their weddings and for other expenses.

"The recovery agent took away everything I had – a table, a chair, my bed, the cooker, the gas cylinder, and even my supply of wheat for the year. He stripped my house empty." When asked if she reported the incident to the police, she stares blankly. "How can we?" she murmurs.

The women say at least 20-25 families in their village alone have fled fearing recovery agents. As they start counting and naming the families, many of them turn towards Pawan Devi.

Pawan took loans from five microfinance institutions for her son's wedding, but she has been unable to repay the amount. Pawan and her family fled the village, spent more than a year in Punjab, and returned only last week.

Pawan cannot recall the name of the village where she and her family stayed. "Barring the biting cold, it was better there," she says. "The landlord didn't charge us for electricity or water. There were clean toilets. And we had a regular income working in the fields." Pawan says what she cherished the most about her stay in Punjab was the absence of recovery agents.

But the agents she dreads are now back at her doorstep. "They come every other day. Sometimes they stand outside for hours. Sometimes they enter the house and start rifling through our papers. The other day, they took away my son's Aadhaar card," she says.

Around 30 kilometres away at Navtol village in Bhawanipur panchayat of Darbhanga district, Mahesh Kumar Roy, who says he is a recovery agent with Muthoot FinCorp, is on his daily rounds of the village. Mahesh, who hails from Darbhanga, goes from house to house on his motorcycle. He pulls out the sheaves of papers rolled up between his motorcycle handles and runs his finger along the names.

"Since 2022, when I joined the company, I have been given 1,100 households to track. At least 450 families who defaulted on their loans have disappeared. I make regular rounds, but all I see is locked homes," he says. Mahesh adds that people "disappear only after they have paid 15-16 installments" and "after we have managed to recover at least 60% of the principal amount."

Mahesh prides himself as a "decent" agent. Aware of the reputation that recovery agents have, he looks at the crowd gathered around him and asks them whether he is intimidating or threatening. They all say 'no'.

Rules on paper

The RBI issued exhaustive guidelines in 2022 collating the piecemeal directives it had issued earlier. It said that the lenders must "provide the flexibility of repayment periodicity on microfinance loans as per borrowers' requirement". That is, the repayment period of the loan must be moulded to the requirements of the borrowers, rather than the needs of the lender. To ensure that microfinance loans do not unduly burden the borrowers, the RBI directions also include a provision that says each regulated lender must ensure that the monthly repayment burden of a household should not exceed 50% of the monthly income of that household.

RBI also has a separate set of guidelines for recovery agents. It defined what would be deemed as harsh methods, such as use of threatening or abusive language, persistently calling the borrower and/or calling the borrower before 9:00 a.m. and after 6:00 p.m., harassing relatives, friends, or co-workers of the borrower, publishing the name of borrowers, the use or threat of use of violence or other similar means to harm the borrower or borrower's family/assets/reputation, or misleading the borrower about the extent of the debt or the consequences of non-repayment.

However, the regulations on the interest to be charged on these loans simply say that the interest rates and other charges and fees on microfinance loans "should not be usurious", and that the RBI would scrutinise this aspect of the loans.

Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and Assam have specific regulations for microfinance. Several other States such as Kerala, Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Maharashtra, and Madhya Pradesh have laws regulating money lenders, which also include microfinance institutions. Assembly elections are scheduled in Bihar in October, but there is no political thrust in the State on bringing in any regulatory mechanism in this regard.

Jayati Ghosh, Professor of Economics at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, U.S., says it is not surprising that the RBI guidelines for microfinance institutions are not being implemented since there is often a lack of implementation of State policy. She also says there are fundamental flaws in the microfinancing model. "While it makes credit accessible for the poor, there is high interest and lack of monitoring of how repayment is ensured, which allows for threats, intimidation, and pressure to take on multiple loans," she says. "In many places, linkages with banks through the SBL (SHG-Bank Linkage Scheme) have been provided, but these also provide limited funds. Only in States where these SHGs are effectively co-operatives that create income-generating opportunities (such as Kerala's Kudumbashree) has this been more successful."

LS to take up motion to remove HC judge

Speaker Om Birla is expected to announce a three-member inquiry committee to probe the charges against Justice Varma.

Rajya Sabha Deputy Chairman Harivansh, now the officiating presiding officer, has been part of the consultation with the government and within Parliament over the issue. The three-member committee will include either the Chief Justice of India or a Supreme Court judge, a High Court Chief Justice and a distinguished jurist.

Former Rajya Sabha Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar, on July 21, informed the House that he received a notice seeking the judge's removal. "It is signed by more than 50 members of the Council of States and thus it meets the numerical requirement of signing by members of Parliament for setting in motion a process for removal of a High Court judge," Mr. Dhankhar had said.

At the same time, he had directed the Secretary-General to find out if a similar motion had been moved in the Lok Sabha or not. He went on describing the provisions of the Judges (Inquiry) Act, 1968, and said that the "Secretary-General will take necessary steps in this direction." The Opposition insisted that this should be treated as acceptance of the motion, signed by 63 Rajya Sabha MPs from the Opposition.

Following an inquiry by a Supreme Court committee into the cash recovery row, then Chief Justice of India, Sanjiv Khanna, had forwarded the committee report to the President and the Prime Minister, paving the way for the motion.

7 children die in Rajasthan school collapse

Of 28 children injured, eight with severe injuries referred to Jhalawar district hospital; the building had reportedly developed cracks and weakened due to continuous rainfall; school principal, four teachers suspended for negligence and not informing officials about the building's condition

The Hindu Bureau
JAIPUR

Seven children were killed and 28 injured when a portion of the roof of a government school collapsed in Rajasthan's Jhalawar district on Friday. The building had reportedly developed cracks and weakened under the impact of continuous rainfall over the past few days.

The roof of one of the five classrooms in the Government Upper Primary School at Piplodi village in Manohar Thana block caved in, just as the children were assembling for morning prayers. About 30 students of Classes 6 and 7, buried under the rubble, were pulled out in a frantic rescue operation.

Scores of people, including the parents and villagers, searched through the mounds of debris, bricks and stones to evacuate the children and rushed them to the hospital. The injured students were first taken to the community health centre (CHC) at Manohar Thana, from where eight in a critical condition were referred to the District Hospital in Jhalawar.

Tragedy unfolds: Locals take part in the rescue work after the government school building collapsed in Piplodi village in Jhalawar district of Rajasthan on Friday. PTI

Doctors at the CHC declared seven children dead during various stages of treatment, while several others were in the intensive care unit (ICU). The angry villagers, who said their complaints to the officers about the school's dilapidated condition had elicited no response, blocked the Manohar Thana-Aklera road by staging a dharna with the demand for compensation.

'Did not figure in list'

Jhalawar District Collector Ajay Singh Rathore said the school in Piplodi village had not figured in the list of weak buildings in the district sent by the Education Department recently. "Action will be taken against whoever is found guilty after investigation," Mr. Rathore said.

According to the students' accounts, there was a persistent water seepage in the 40-year-old school building and some tree branches had grown into the walls of the classrooms. Some of the students also reportedly noticed the plaster falling from the roof in the morning.

While Education Minister Madan Dilawar rushed to Piplodi after cancelling his tour to Bharatpur-Deeg, the department placed the school's principal, Meena Garg, and four teachers under suspension. They were accused of negligence and not informing the higher authorities about the building's condition, besides failing to make any alternative arrangements for the safety of students.

After Friday's accident, the State government is likely to conduct an infrastructure audit of all buildings of government schools and anganwadi centres, especially those situated in the remote areas. The District Education Officers (DEOs) will also issue circulars to the schools warning them against holding classes in structurally compromised buildings.

President Droupadi Murmu and Prime Minister Narendra Modi were among those who condoled the loss of children's lives in Piplodi. Ms. Murmu said the news of the collapse of the school roof was "extremely tragic". Governor Haribhau Bagade, Chief Minister Bhajan Lal Sharma, former Chief Ministers Ashok Gehlot and Vasundhara Raje, Assembly Speaker Vasudev Devnani, and other leaders also expressed grief.

Maldives President Muizzu thanks India

Mr. Modi's visit is seen as reflecting a significant improvement in India's relationship with a crucial neighbour. "Maldives is an important part of India's 'neighbourhood first' policy," Mr. Modi said in his media statement in Male.

In a social media post on the release of a stamp to mark 60 years of India-Maldives friendship, he said it commemorated "a very cherished friendship".

Following talks between the leaders, the two sides exchanged four Memoranda of Understanding (MoUs) and signed three agreements taking forward cooperation in several key sectors, including fisheries, aquaculture, tourism, environment, digital solutions, and finalising the terms of reference to launch negotiations of a Free Trade Agreement.

In an indication that economic partnership remains a major cornerstone of bilateral ties, India agreed to extend a fresh Line of Credit (LoC) of ₹4,850 crore, to support the island as it faces an enduring twin deficit problem. This is the first time that such credit is being extended to the Maldives in Indian Rupee. "We expect several infrastructure projects to be carried out using this LoC," Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri later told a press conference in Male.

Significantly, the two countries signed an amendatory agreement on reducing the Maldives's annual debt repayment obligations. Following "a sharp 40%" reduction, as Mr. Misri put it in the media conference, Male would have to pay $29 million annually, instead of $51 million, as it repays an earlier $800-million LoC extended by India.

Observers of India-Maldives ties see the renewed collaboration between the countries as a necessary and positive development.

Ministry blocks 25 OTT platforms over 'obscene content'

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

Blocked platforms include Ullu, ALTT, Hulchul, Big Shots App, Desiflix, Jalva and Boomex

The Information & Broadcasting Ministry has directed the blocking of websites and apps of 25 OTT platforms for allegedly carrying obscene, vulgar, and in some cases, pornographic content.

The action was taken in consultation with the Ministries of Home Affairs, Women and Child Development, Electronics and Information Technology, the Department of Legal Affairs, industry bodies such as FICCI and CII, and experts in the fields of women and child rights.

"Utilising the provisions of the Information Technology Act, 2000, and the IT Rules, 2021, notifications have been issued to the various intermediaries to ensure that access to the concerned websites and apps is disabled," a source said on Friday.

The contents of 26 websites and 14 apps – nine on Google Play Store, five on Apple App Store – have been blocked. The OTT platforms, which have been blocked include Big Shots App, Desiflix, Boomex, NeonX VIP, Navarasa Lite, Gulab, Kangan, Bull, ShowHit, Jalva, Wow Entertainment, Look Entertainment, Hitprime, Fugi, Feneo, ShowX, Sol Talkies, Adda TV, ALTT, HotX VIP, Hulchul, MoodX, Triflicks, Ullu, and Mojflix.

According to the government, the objectionable content included sexual innuendos and long portions of sexually explicit scenes involving nudity, deemed pornographic in nature. "There was hardly any storyline, theme or message in a social context," an official pointed out.

Will Modi retire at 75, asks Cong. chief citing RSS view; Rahul calls PM 'all show'

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

Taking a swipe at Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge on Friday asked if Mr. Modi would retire at 75, as suggested by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS).

Referring to RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat's statement that politicians should retire at 75, Mr. Kharge said that citing this rule, Mr. Modi removed veteran BJP leaders such as L. K. Advani and Murli Manohar Joshi. "Now he (PM) is completing 75 years. When will he move out? That issue is also before us. Will he go? Modi ji ousted all others. He has nothing to do with the country. He is only worried about his chair," Mr. Kharge told a gathering.

Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi said he has met the Prime Minister in person a few times and found him to be "all show and no substance". He said the media has "inflated the Prime Minister's balloon but there was not much substance in him".

Mallikarjun Kharge

"Earlier, I had not met him, but now I have met him two to three times. Now I understand there is nothing," Mr. Gandhi said.

The Congress leaders were addressing a Bhagidari Nyay Sammelan of the Other Backward Classes (OBCs) during which Mr. Kharge said the party has prepared a plan to bring the OBCs to the forefront. He urged all Congress Chief Ministers to launch new welfare schemes for OBCs.

Urging backward sections of the society to unite against the BJP, Mr. Kharge said that had the Congress got 25 more seats in the Lok Sabha election, it could have come to power.

Analysing his 21 years in politics, Mr. Gandhi said he committed a "mistake" in not protecting the interests of the OBCs in entirety. He said his approach was right in a few issues - such as Land Acquisition Bill, MGNREGA, Food Bill, fight for tribals - even though there may have been shortcomings.

"But when I look back, I can see clearly that in one thing I was lacking, I committed one mistake – I did not protect the OBC section the way I should have," he said, adding that he had not understand the issues of OBCs earlier.

SC extends relief granted to Rahul in Savarkar case

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday extended the stay of summons issued to Congress leader and Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi in a defamation case accusing him of making derogatory remarks against Hindutva ideologue V.D. Savarkar during his Bharat Jodo Yatra in Maharashtra last year.

A Bench headed by Justices Dipankar Datta listed the case after four weeks, giving the complainant, Nripendra Pandey, a fortnight's time to file his response to the challenge filed by Mr. Gandhi in the top court.

The Court had stayed an Uttar Pradesh trial court summons issued to the Congress leader in an order in May while cautioning him from making "statements against our freedom fighters who gave us freedom".

Caught in crackdown against illegal immigrants, two Assam residents return home with trauma and scars

Abhinay Lakshman
NEW DELHI

May 23 started like any other Friday for Khairul Islam. In the afternoon, he visited the police station for his weekly signature in the register – a trip he has been making at least since 2020 when he was released on bail from a "foreigners' detention camp" in Assam.

Around 11.30 p.m., he woke up to an unusual knock on the door of his small house in Morigaon district. "It was the border police," he said.

Within days, Mr. Islam found himself in no-man's land between India and Bangladesh. He said his hands and eyes were tied with gamchas (traditional towel) as he was transported to Bangladesh, with no opportunity to even make a phone call until he was already across the border.

A government school-teacher, Mr. Islam, 52, lives with his wife and children in Mikirbheta police station area. He has been teaching Classes 1 to 5 at Thangshali Khandapukuri LP primary school since 1996. In 2016, he was declared a foreigner by a tribunal and spent a couple of years appealing his case. With the Gauhati High Court having turned down his appeal and his case pending in the Supreme Court, he has been reporting at the local police station every week.

However, little did he expect that he would be among thousands of "undocumented migrants" that India had been "pushing back" into Bangladesh. The "pushback" exercise had begun after the Union Home Ministry asked police across the country to identify Bangladeshis who had illegally entered India and were living on forged documents.

The Home Ministry's direction, which came in the wake of the regime change in Bangladesh last year, gained fresh urgency after the Pahalgam terror attack in April, with data reported by The Hindu showing that about 2,500 people had been "pushed back" by the end of June.

Rahima Begum and Khairul Islam. SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

"I remember being scared," Mr. Islam says of his journey across the border in a "large vehicle" in which he was blindfolded and his hands tied. "Throughout the journey, I kept reasoning with them (officials) that I am an Indian citizen but they would not listen," Mr. Islam said. "I never thought I would be thrown out of my own country," he told The Hindu, adding all were handed about 200 to 300 takas (Bangladeshi currency) before being deboarded.

Mr. Islam said the group crossed the no-man's land and met locals, who informed security officials in Bangladesh. After spending about a day with the officials, Mr. Islam said the group started making its way back to India. "But suddenly, we started hearing gunshots from the Indian side. They were firing rubber pellets at us. A few more hours later, we realised that India was now asking Bangladesh for proof that we were Indians."

It was after this that Mr. Islam got the chance to make a phone call for the first time. "The Bangladeshi officers asked us to call home, get documents if we had, and arranged to have it sent over. After that, all I remember was being ferried from one place to another until I got home. When I reached home, I found out that my wife had to file an application for my return to the district Superintendent of Police office as well," he said, adding he was the only one in his batch to return.

"The moment I was brought back, I was taken to the SP office. All he could say was, 'This was a mistake. Please don't think too much of it and don't feel too bad'," Mr. Islam recalled.

As he tries to recover from the trauma, he says painful memories of his journey across the border still flash in his mind.

Rahima Begum, 50, was taken away from her home in Golaghat district on the eastern border of the State, during the same week as Mr. Islam. And like him, Ms. Rahima too was among several Indians caught in the police crackdown on illegal immigrants.

In a matter of days, Ms. Rahima was crawling across paddy fields under the midnight sky in the no-man's land, with about 22 fresh stitches on her abdomen from a kidney-stone related surgery she had undergone days before. She was too scared to walk. Ms. Rahima is now in a "serious condition" at a hospital in Assam, her husband Malekuddin Chowdhury said. "After she returned, we saw that many of the 22 stitches had come apart."

A daily wage labourer, Mr. Chowdhury has not been working for a few years now since he lost his sight partially. His teenage sons now support the family with their daily wages.

As Ms. Rahima recovers in hospital, Mr. Chowdhury said he was running out of things to sell for her treatment. "Whatever livestock we had... ducks, chicken, goats... we sold it all."

Governor returns Aparajita Bill to West Bengal government

Shiv Sahay Singh
KOLKATA

Raising concerns over the death penalty provisions in the Aparajita Women and Child (West Bengal Criminal Laws Amendment) Bill, 2024, West Bengal Governor C.V. Ananda Bose has returned the legislation to the State government for further consideration.

"One of the proposed amendments seeks to enhance the punishment for rape under Section 64 of the BNS, 2023, raising it from the existing minimum of 10 years to life imprisonment for the remainder of one's life or death. The Ministry of Home Affairs has termed this change as excessively harsh and disproportionate," an official of the Raj Bhavan said.

The West Bengal Legislative Assembly had unanimously passed the Aparajita Bill on September 3, 2024, introducing stringent punishment in cases involving sexual assault. The Bill was sent to President Droupadi Murmu by the Governor on September 6, 2024.

R.G. Kar case

The legislation, which was passed 25 days after the rape and murder of a doctor at R.G. Kar Medical College and Hospital in Kolkata, provides for the death penalty in five categories of offences – rape, rape by a police officer or public servant, rape causing death or resulting in a persistent vegetative state, gang rape, and repeat offenders.

Raj Bhavan officials said that the Bill proposes to make the death penalty mandatory in cases where the victim dies or is left in a vegetative state under Section 66 of the BNS. "The Ministry of Home Affairs has raised concerns over the removal of judicial discretion in such cases," the official said.

Govt. running away from debate on SIR: Trinamool

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

On a day the government indicated that it is unlikely to allow a debate on the ongoing special intensive revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in Bihar, the Trinamool Congress's Parliamentary Party leader in the Rajya Sabha, Derek O'Brien, said it was a top priority for his party.

Mr. O'Brien said the Trinamool would be stepping up its protest. "The Opposition wants the Houses to run, but it is the government that has been running away from the debate on the revision of electoral rolls going on in Bihar and to be implemented in other States, including West Bengal, next year," he said. The Opposition was considering carrying out a protest march to the Election Commission's door, he said.

"You are trying to remove people from the voters' lists. This amounts to total interference and blatant cheating," he added. He accused the Election Commission of operating like "BJP's branch office".

If all Opposition parties are demanding a debate on the SIR exercise, why is the government reluctant to hold it? he asked.

Deadlock continues over revision of Bihar poll roll

While the Opposition is insisting that a debate must be held in the House, the govt. has pointed out the problems in agreeing to a discussion; Parliament will discuss Operation Sindoor next week

Sandeep Phukan
NEW DELHI

A meeting of senior political leaders with Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla on Friday decided that the Lower House of Parliament would function smoothly, as both Houses are all set to take up the special discussion on the Pahalgam terror attack and Operation Sindoor next week.

But Friday's meeting failed to break the deadlock over the Opposition's insistence on having a debate on the special intensive revision (SIR) of Bihar's electoral rolls.

From citing precedence when former Speaker Balram Jhakhar had rejected a discussion on the Election Commission (EC) to pointing out the autonomous status of the EC to asking which Minister would reply on behalf of the EC, the government managers pointed out the problems in agreeing to a discussion on SIR.

"The government is hiding its intent behind various technical reasons. They say if a discussion on the Election Commission and electoral process are held within the House, then who will answer? I would like to tell them that don't give these excuses and hold a discussion. There are many provisions under which you can discuss the electoral process," Congress's Deputy Leader in the Lok Sabha, Gaurav Gogoi, told presspersons.

"But yes, if the intent is vote theft, then you can hide behind various technical grounds," Mr. Gogoi added.

The issue of SIR, however, continued to stall proceedings in Parliament as both Houses failed to transact any business for the fifth straight day.

'Thrown in bin'

Opposition leaders of the INDIA bloc also registered their protest against the SIR process by symbolically tearing posters with 'SIR' written on them and putting them in a 'disposal bin'. Leaders belonging to the Congress, DMK, Samajwadi Party, Trinamool Congress, Jharkhand Mukti Morcha, Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD), and the Left parties, among others, took out a protest march with the banner "SIR- Loktantra Par Vaar (assault on democracy)" from the Mahatma Gandhi statue within the Parliament complex to the entrance of the Parliament building.

Soon after, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge and Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi tore the poster with SIR written on it and put it in the trash bin as a symbolic rejection of the exercise.

In a post on X, Mr. Kharge said it is "very unfortunate that a constitutional institution like the EC is supporting the BJP-RSS in this conspiracy of 'vote bandi'."

"The RSS-BJP has always wanted to deprive the weaker sections of the society of the right to vote, and now by using SIR, it is hell-bent on fulfilling its years-old intention," Mr. Kharge alleged.

Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, Congress's Lok Sabha member from Wayanad, said: "Our Constitution makers have given the right to vote to every Indian. Taking away the right to vote from the poor people is like destroying democracy. This is not acceptable".

Modi overtakes Indira, clocks second-longest continuous stint as PM

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday became the second longest-serving Prime Minister of India in consecutive terms, surpassing former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's record.

He completed 4,078 days in office in an unbroken tenure on Friday. Indira Gandhi had served for 4,077 days continuously, from January 24, 1966, to March 24, 1977. She was re-elected in 1980 and remained in office until her death in 1984.

Marking the occasion, Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) MP Sudhanshu Trivedi said, "Today, PM Modi has become the second longest-serving PM of the country with an uninterrupted tenure. When Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and Indira Gandhi became the Prime Ministers of the country, it was the result of the prevailing circumstances. However, PM Modi has achieved this record with the mandate of the people."

The record for the longest unbroken tenure is held by India's first Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru. However, Mr. Modi has matched Nehru in winning three successive Lok Sabha elections – in 2014, 2019, and 2024.

Narendra Modi

This milestone also coincides with another: Mr. Modi is the longest-serving non-Congress Prime Minister, and the first such leader to complete two full terms. Former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee, also of the BJP, was elected thrice – in 1996 (for a 13-day government), in 1998 (for 13 months), and in 1999, when he served a full term. However, he did not complete more than one full term in office.

Another record held by Mr. Modi is that of being the elected head of government at both the State and Central levels for the longest continuous stint. He was appointed Chief Minister of Gujarat in 2001 and held the post until 2014, when he became Prime Minister.

Centre skips West Bengal in MGNREGS dues reply

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Rural Development Ministry, while answering to a question in the Rajya Sabha on pending dues to the States under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS), skipped any reference to West Bengal. The scheme, which provides 100 days of wage employment to rural households, has remained suspended in the State since March 2022.

On Friday, in a written reply to a question asked by Trinamool Congress MP Derek O'Brien on pending dues to the States under three heads of wages, material and administration, the Ministry only gave data for 33 States and Union Territories without any reference to West Bengal.

In an order on June 18, the Calcutta High Court had directed the Union government to resume the scheme in the State. On Tuesday, to another question, asked by Trinamool MP Mahua Moitra in Lok Sabha, on what steps the government is taking for timely compliance with the order, the Ministry replied: "The order is being studied in the Ministry to decide further course of action."

66 lakh voters may be left out of draft roll: EC data

Sreeparna Chakrabarty
NEW DELHI

Almost 66 lakh voters are unlikely to make it to the draft electoral roll to be published on August 1, according to Election Commission (EC) data released on Friday, the last day for submission of enumeration forms in the ongoing special intensive revision (SIR) process.

Bihar had over 7.89 crore voters according to the 2025 electoral rolls.

The forms of 7.23 crore electors have been received and digitised, and the names of all these electors will be included in the draft electoral roll, the EC said in a statement. It said that the digitisation of forms of the remaining electors will also be completed by August 1, along with booth-level officer (BLO) reports.

Bihar had over 7.89 crore voters according to the 2025 electoral rolls. SHASHI SHEKHAR KASHYAP

During the month-long SIR exercise, which began on June 24, the BLOs have reported the names of approximately 22 lakh deceased electors, 7 lakh registered in more than one location, and 35 lakh who have either permanently migrated or could not be traced. In addition, the enumeration forms of approximately 1.2 lakh electors are yet to be received.

From August 1 to September 1, any elector or political party may fill the prescribed forms and submit claims to the Electoral Registration Officers for any eligible elector who has been excluded, or file objections for the removal of any ineligible elector.

Opposition parties, however, have branded the SIR as an attempt to bring in the National Register of Citizens through a "backdoor" route. The contentious exercise has been challenged in the Supreme Court, and a hearing is scheduled on July 28.

V-P election process begins; EC appoints Returning Officer

Sreeparna Chakrabarty
NEW DELHI

The Election Commission (EC) on Friday kicked off the process for holding Vice-Presidential polls by appointing the Secretary-General of the Rajya Sabha, P.C. Mody, as the Returning Officer.

The poll body has also appointed Garima Jain, Joint Secretary, Rajya Sabha Secretariat, and Vijay Kumar, Director, Rajya Sabha Secretariat, as Assistant Returning Officers.

The Vice-Presidential election has been necessitated due to the sudden resignation of Jagdeep Dhankhar on Monday, which has led to a rare mid-term vacancy in the second-highest constitutional position. The election to the office of Vice-President is governed by The Presidential and Vice-Presidential Elections Act, 1952 and The Presidential and Vice-Presidential Elections Rules, 1974.

The Vice-President is elected by an Electoral College, which consists of members of the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha, including nominated members. According to the rules, the nomination paper has to be subscribed by at least 20 electors as proposers and at least 20 electors as seconders and has to be presented to the Returning Officer, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. on any day appointed for the purpose.

Govt. silent on reforms to address judicial misconduct

Ishita Mishra
NEW DELHI

At a time when the government is seeking to remove Allahabad High Court judge Justice Yashwant Varma after burnt currency notes were found at his official residence in Delhi this March, the Union Law Minister, in a written reply in Parliament, did not specify the government's stance on legislative reforms regarding the Supreme Court's in-house procedure to address judicial misconduct.

Responding to a question in the Lok Sabha whether reforms were required in the top court's procedure, Law Minister Arjun Ram Meghwal only described the existing rules and regulations for the removal of judges of the Supreme Court and High Courts and did not speak on the need for reforms. "Article 124 (4) provides that a judge of the Supreme Court shall not be removed from his office except by an order of the President passed after an address by each House of Parliament supported by a majority of the total membership of that House and by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the members of that House present and voting has been presented to the President in the same session for such removal on the ground of proved misbehaviour or incapacity," the Minister said in the reply.

Arjun Ram Meghwal

"For Judges of the High Court, Article 217(1)(b) stipulates that a Judge may be removed from his office by the President in the manner provided for in clause (4) of Article 124 for the removal of a Judge of the Supreme Court," he said.

The Minister skipped the reply to a question about steps being taken on reforms, and if there has been any consultation with experts on this.

Received over 6,900 inputs on draft data rules: Ministry

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The draft Digital Personal Data Protection Rules, 2025, have received 6,915 inputs and comments from the public, firms, and other stakeholders, the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology told Parliament on Friday.

The volume of comments reflects the back-to-back consultation sessions the government has held since the draft was published in January, with a lengthy written comment period, as well as sessions with State governments, private industry, and other groups of invited stakeholders. The comments are being held in confidence, the Ministry said.

The DPDP Rules (and the parent Act) provide for penalties against firms that fail to take effective measures to safeguard personal information.

UPSC bars candidate for three years over exam misconduct

Vijaita Singh
NEW DELHI

The Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) has debarred a candidate from appearing in all future examinations for a period of three years after the individual was found in possession of incriminating material during an examination, the commission said on Friday.

In a post on LinkedIn, the UPSC said the candidate was found guilty under Rule 12(1)(h) of the Examination Rules – "being in possession of or using unfair means during the examination".

"Accordingly, UPSC has taken stringent disciplinary action in line with standardisation of penalties by cancelling the candidature for the current year's examination and debarred the individual from appearing in all future examination(s)/selection(s) to be conducted by the Commission for a period of three years," it added.

It further said such measures are essential to preserve the sanctity of the selection process and ensure that merit remains the sole criterion for recruitment to government services.

'Strict action'

Commenting on the action, UPSC Chairman Ajay Kumar said, "UPSC is firmly committed to upholding the highest standards of integrity, transparency, and fairness in its examination processes. Any candidate found guilty of indulging in unfair means or misconduct during examinations faces strict disciplinary action, including debarment from future examinations, as the strictest action."

"This is the sole reason why UPSC, for the last 100 years, has been an epitome of merit and a fair system," Mr. Kumar added.

NIA issues notice against Hizb-ul-Mujahideen chief

A special National Investigation Agency (NIA) court on Friday issued a proclamation against Hizb-ul-Mujahideen chief and United Jihad Council supremo Mohammad Yousuf Shah, alias Syed Salahuddin, a resident of Soibugh, Budgam, in an Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) case. The special designated court has officially declared the accused as absconding and issued a proclamation requiring his appearance, in connection with "serious charges under the UAPA and the Ranbir Penal Code (RPC)".

Soldier killed in landmine blast in J&K's Poonch district

An Army soldier was killed and two others were injured in a landmine blast near the Line of Control (LoC) in Poonch district of Jammu and Kashmir on Friday. A spokesman of the Army's White Knight Corps said Agniveer Lalit Kumar of 7 JAT Regiment made the supreme sacrifice while on an area domination patrol in general area of Krishna Ghati brigade following a mine blast. "We stand with the bereaved family in this hour of grief," the Army said. Officials said the injured were immediately evacuated and airlifted to Army Base Hospital Udhampur for treatment.

States can't seek delimitation claiming parity with J&K: SC

SC explains that unlike the Union Territory, all States are bound by a constitutional embargo on delimitation till a post-2026 Census; J&K delimitation was done on the basis of the 2011 Census

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday held that the Centre did not discriminate against the electorates of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana or dampen their "legitimate expectations" by conducting the delimitation of constituencies in the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir in 2022.

A Bench of Justices Surya Kant and N. Kotiswar Singh said that States could not claim "parity" by arguing that delimitation was done in Jammu and Kashmir, but not for them. "That would be like treating unequals equally," the court observed.

> The two States in question (Andhra Pradesh and Telangana) and the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir operate in distinct constitutional domains. Any delimitation exercise carried out in one cannot serve as a benchmark or ground of comparison for the other. The delimitation undertaken for the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir cannot be mechanically extended to States bound by the express embargo under Article 170(3) of the Constitution
>
> SUPREME COURT

Constitutional embargo

The judgment was based on a petition filed by Professor K. Purushottam Reddy, seeking a direction to the Centre to conduct a delimitation exercise in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana to readjust the seats in the States' Assemblies. The petitioner had pointed to the exercise done in Jammu and Kashmir as a precedent. Justice Kant, who authored the verdict, explained that there was a specific constitutional embargo in Article 170 which mandated that the delimitation exercise in States is barred until after the completion of the first Census post 2026.

Jammu and Kashmir, on the other hand, being a Union Territory, is excluded from the freeze on delimitation under Article 170 of the Constitution. The delimitation exercise in the Union Territory had been undertaken on the basis of the 2011 Census.

Distinct domains

"The two States in question (Andhra Pradesh and Telangana) and the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir operate in distinct constitutional domains. Any delimitation exercise carried out in one cannot serve as a benchmark or ground of comparison for the other. The delimitation undertaken for the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir cannot be mechanically extended to States bound by the express embargo under Article 170(3) of the Constitution," the Supreme Court held.

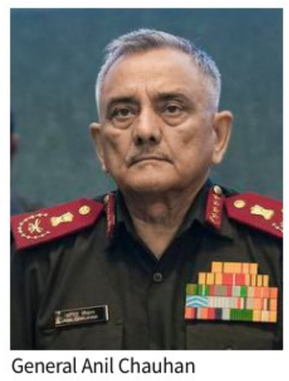
Besides, the court held that allowing delimitation for Andhra Pradesh and Telangana through a judicial dictum would foster discontent among other States and breed inequality.

"Granting such a relief would prompt unabated challenges from other similarly situated regions. In particular, the four North-Eastern States – Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Manipur, and Nagaland – which were expressly excluded from the scope of delimitation by way of a Central notification in 2021," Justice Kant emphasised.

The court said that any leeway allowed to Andhra Pradesh and Telangana before the 2026 Census would "destabilise the uniform electoral framework and blur the clear demarcation between constitutional prescription and political discretion".

Operation Sindoor continues, need to be alert at all times: CDS

Saurabh Trivedi
NEW DELHI



General Anil Chauhan

Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) General Anil Chauhan on Friday said that Operation Sindoor remains in progress and highlighted the vital need for uninterrupted military readiness, stating, "There are no runners-up in war."

Gen. Chauhan was speaking on the evolving role of the military professionals and the growing relevance of a "scholar warrior" at a seminar jointly organised by the Indian Air Force (IAF) and the Centre for Air Power Studies (CAPS) under the aegis of the "No.4 Warfare and Aerospace Strategy Programme".

Scholar warriors

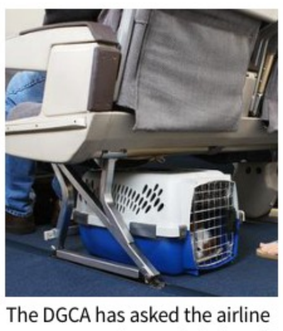
"There are no runners-up in war... will give example of Operation Sindoor, which still continues, our preparedness level has to be very high, it's 24x7, 365 days. We are living in that kind of environment. It's only scholar warriors that can ensure this readiness by thinking differently, connecting the dots across this complete kind of spectrum," he said.

"A scholar warrior is a military professional who combines intellectual depth, combines skills. This individual possesses both strong academic knowledge and practical military expertise, enabling them to analyse complex situations, standardise effectively and adapt to diverse challenges in a dynamic security environment," the CDS said.

He emphasised that it was essential for the military to learn about both shastra (warfare) and shaastra (knowledge). The warrior today needs to master all three levels of warfare – tactical, operational and strategic in all domains.

Airlines asked to prevent unauthorised transport of live animals into India

S. Vijay Kumar
CHENNAI



The DGCA has asked the airline operators to detect violation of deportation conditions while carrying live animals to India.

In a bid to prevent the unauthorised carriage of live animals into India, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has issued fresh guidelines to airlines operators, official sources said on Friday.

Amid multiple instances reported by airlines regarding the carriage of live animals into India by passengers without proper declaration or clearance, classified as unbeknownst imports, the DGCA asked the operators to devise strategies to detect and deter the violation of deportation conditions.

Going by rules laid down by the Animal Quarantine and Certification Services and Indian Customs, such animals were subject to immediate deportation to their country of origin, with appropriate intimation to concerned stakeholders an authorities in that country.

Sole responsibility

Though the carriage of animals/birds by air was governed by the Aeronautical Information Circular (AIC) of 1985, the DGCA's advisory intended to further guide and ensure compliance with the latest instructions/orders of the Indian Customs and other law-enforcing agencies and facilitate the safe and legally compliant deportation of animals by all aircraft operators/airlines operating in India. "The airline that transported the undeclared live animals shall be solely responsible for deportation in accordance with applicable laws. All costs associated with deportation, including animal handling, in-transit welfare, documentation, and repatriation logistics shall be borne by the airline," the advisory said.

As part of the preventive measures, the operators were advised to make sure that the employees deployed at check-in counters, boarding gates and in-flight operations were adequately trained and sensitised on customs and quarantine rules and regulations pertaining to transport of live animals. Passenger advisories and signage regarding restrictions on import of live animals should be displayed prominently, the sources said.

8 years after stand-off with China, Doklam to open for tourists

Rahul Karmakar
GANGTOK

Eight years after witnessing a stand-off between Indian and Chinese troops, Sikkim's Doklam is set to open for tourists.

Located 68 km east of the State capital, Gangtok, and at an altitude of 13,780 feet, Doklam is a plateau in the Chumbi Valley at the tri-junction of Bhutan, China, and India. It became a flashpoint in June 2017 when China attempted to build a road in territory claimed by Bhutan.

India intervened to safeguard its strategic interests and to support Bhutan, an ally. China halted construction activities at Doklam, also known as Donglang, after more than two months of a controlled stand-off.

"We are preparing to open Doklam for visitors in September, when the tourist season starts in Sikkim. It is one of three sites the Defence Ministry identified in Sikkim for battlefield tourism in India," C. Subhakar Rao, the State's Additional Chief Secretary handling the Tourism and Civil Aviation departments, told The Hindu.

The other two sites are Nathu La and Cho La, where a series of clashes between Indian and Chinese troops took place from September to October 1967. Sikkim, then an Indian protectorate, became the country's 22nd State in May 1975 following a referendum. "Nothing much needs to be done at Nathu La, which is already a tourist spot about 58 km from Gangtok. At the other two Bharat Rannbhoomi Darshan sites (Cho La and Doklam), we are constructing cafeterias, restrooms, wayside amenities, and parking spaces jointly with the Army," Mr. Rao said. Army officials said work on the battlefield tourism sites has continued despite harsh terrain and conditions.

'Consensual sex between adolescents aged 16 to 18 must not be treated as abuse'

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

Amicus curiae says that the age of consent was static at 16 for 80 years and there is no reason for the increase

The Supreme Court-appointed amicus curiae and senior advocate Indira Jaising has argued that consensual sexual acts by teenagers aged between 16 and 18 in voluntary relationships cannot be classified as "abuse" or prosecuted as a crime.

The written submissions filed by Ms. Jaising in the top court is part of a petition filed by advocate Nipun Saxena dating back to 2012. Ms. Jaising's brief has challenged the designation of 18 as the age of consent under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (POCSO), to the extent that it works to criminalise "consensual sexual activity between children between the age of 16-18". "The only solution lies in declaring that sex between consenting adolescents between the age of 16, an almost universal age of sexual maturity, and 18 is not a form of 'abuse'," Ms. Jaising's submissions said.

She said the exemption for consensual sexual acts between individuals in this age group must be read into the POCSO Act and also Section 375 (rape) of the Indian Penal Code and its corresponding provision, Section 63, of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS).

She submitted that the word 'child' in Section 2(d) of POCSO should not include those aged between 16 and 18 who engage in consensual sexual activity. "Without reading down the statutory age of consent set at 18, it is prayed that the Supreme Court read into the impugned provisions a 'close-in-age exception', applicable when both parties to the sexual act are adolescents between the ages of 16 and 18 and the sexual act is consensual. Such an exception would preserve the protective intent of the statute while preventing its misuse against adolescent relationships that are not exploitative in nature," she said.

The case in question contains a challenge against the increase of age of consent from 16 years to 18 years through the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 2013. "The age of consent was static at 16 for 80 years. No rational reason has been indicated for the increase, nor is there any data to suggest that the age of consent required any increase. The BNS has also kept a legislative scheme similar to the one in the Criminal Law Amendment Act," Ms. Jaising submitted.

FAITH

Friend and devotee

Sri. Ranganji said in a discourse that the Vedas are the oldest literature. The greatness of the Vedas lies in the fact that they are fostered well and remain intact, unchanged, as they have been from time immemorial. The Vedas are the definitive testimony to understand dharma (Veda: pramanam dharmasya). The Vedas reside in the hearts of those who recite them by heart, like a God who dwells in the garbhagriha (sanctum sanctorum) of the temple. The Ramayana incorporates many doctrines from the Vedas and provides further insight into the concept of dharma.

The citizens of Ayodhya, who tried to stop their beloved leader, Rama, from heading to the forest, could not succeed and were left grief-stricken, torn, and wrapped in utter gloom. When Rama reached the river Ganga, the chief of the region, Guha, a hunter by profession, came running to greet Rama and extend a hearty welcome. It is but natural for people to see the face value of others and then befriend them. Rama, supreme in all aspects, did not see anything in making friends with Guha. Considering Guha as a coeval, Rama gave him the status of a king (Ramasya Aatma Samassakha). Like a cow secreting milk from its udder to its calf, Rama poured his blessings on Guha. Rama introduced his beloved spouse Sita to Guha as his best friend. Acharya Periavachan Pillai states in his commentary that Rama introduced Sita to Guha so that he would receive the blessings of the Goddess. Rama embraced Guha with a heart filled with joy.

Apostle Thirumangaiazhwar prayed to Lord Ranganatha, asking if he was like Guha and whether Lord Ranganatha would embrace him and extend his blessings.

Duty-free access to U.K. via trade pact to drive FDI into India

CETA includes separate chapter on 'Rules of Origin', which stipulate what kind of goods are eligible for the reduced tariffs the agreement provides

T.C.A. Sharad Raghavan
NEW DELHI

The India-U.K. Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) has the potential to boost foreign direct investment (FDI) into India, officials, industry participants and investment analysts wagered.

A major driver of this is the local sourcing norm in the agreement that mandates only goods made in India would be eligible for the tariff reductions.

The CETA includes a separate chapter on 'Rules of Origin', which stipulates what kind of goods are eligible for the reduced tariffs the agreement provides.

"To qualify for reduced tariffs, the rules of origin specify a product must either be wholly obtained or significantly transformed through processing in either the U.K. or India," as per documents accompanying CETA.

This was to ensure that only genuinely British or Indian goods could access the preferential tariffs under the agreement.

"This is an important aspect of the deal, since it means goods imported from abroad, repackaged, and then exported to the U.K. will not be eligible for the zero duties," said a senior government official who did not wish to be named.

Unlocking potential: Union Minister Piyush Goyal and U.K. Business and Trade Secretary Jonathan Reynolds signing CETA. ANI

"This means companies looking to export to the U.K. will have to invest in proper manufacturing here, instead of importing from countries like China."

He added, while the U.K. had opened up 99% of its tariff lines, India did not export all of these tariff lines to the U.K.

Zero duty export

"However, what the deal does is provide potential," the official explained. "If a foreign company sees an opportunity to export a particular good to the U.K., it will view India favourably since they can export from here at zero duty."

Sarvadnya Kulkarni, CEO, General Instruments Consortium, an engineering components maker, said this was especially true for the precision engineering sector.

"The U.K.-India FTA is expected to significantly enhance foreign direct investment in India's precision engineering and industrial instrumentation sector," Mr. Kulkarni told The Hindu.

"With reduced tariffs and greater regulatory alignment, U.K. engineering, procurement, and construction firms and original equipment manufacturers and process industry investors are likely to find India more attractive for sourcing, joint ventures and technology transfers."

India-U.K. pact avoids source code mandates

Aroon Deep
NEW DELHI

The digital trade chapter of the India-U.K. Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) commits both to avoid "the transfer of, or access to, source code of software owned by a person of other party," bringing significant policy relief to foreign technology firms, who have resisted such mandates. Source code is the base of all software applications, and is not typically visible to end users, as this may permit reverse engineering or cyber exploits.

The Software Freedom Law Centre, India (SFLC), a digital rights advocacy, said the chapter was "a welcome approach from both the countries" and reflected a "new posture of being pro-innovation and business over heavy handed regulation, especially on data localisation and transfers." The framework would still have to, SFLC warned, "reconcile" the data protection laws of India and the U.K.

The framework has to reconcile with data protection laws.

Open govt. data

Vikram Jeet Singh, partner, BTG Advaya, a transactional and disputes law firm, said a provision that permits both countries to access each other's 'open government data' is 'significant given the large amount of data available with the governments."

With the CETA, the two countries "have undertaken to ensure validity and enforceability of electronic contracts, promote the use of electronic authentication services, ensure online consumer protection, curb unsolicited commercial messages, and commit to open Internet access," Mr. Singh said.

In some ways, the CETA reflects India's existing posture on digital trade issues. For instance, the Department of Telecommunications is already in the midst of dropping a source code disclosure need for makers bidding for public procurement contracts, a concession that raised eyebrows among local players.

Another aspect is the lack of any commitment on data localisation, where India has not made any commitments on the "free flow of data," allowing regulators like the RBI to continue requiring strict data storage norms from firms in critical spaces like finance and banking.

Georges Ibrahim Abdallah, 74, one of France's longest-held inmates, was released and deported to Lebanon on Friday after over 40 years in prison for his involvement in the 1982 murders of two diplomats. Greeted by dozens of supporters in Beirut, he was freed under conditions barring return to France. AFP

France will recognise Palestine as a state in September, says Macron

French President says he intends to make a formal announcement at the UN General Assembly; Palestinian Authority welcomes the decision, saying it reflects France's commitment to international law; Israel's Netanyahu slams the move

French President Emmanuel Macron said on Thursday his country would formally recognise a Palestinian state during a UN meeting in September, the most powerful European nation to announce such a move.

At least 142 countries now recognise or plan to recognise Palestinian statehood, according to an AFP tally – though Israel and the U.S. strongly oppose the move.

U.S. Secretary of State Marco Rubio called it a "reckless decision (that) only serves Hamas propaganda".

Mr. Macron's announcement drew immediate anger from Israel, with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu saying it "rewards terror" and poses an existential threat to Israel.

Senior Palestinian Authority official Hussein al-Sheikh welcomed the move, saying it "reflects France's commitment to international law and its support for the Palestinian people's rights to self-determination and the establishment of our independent state".

Mr. Macron said the "urgent priority today is to end the war in Gaza and rescue the civilian population".

"We must finally build the State of Palestine, ensure its viability and enable it, by accepting its demilitarisation and fully recognising Israel, to contribute to the security of all in the Middle East," he wrote on social media.

Mr. Macron said he intended to make the announcement at the UN General Assembly in September.

While France would be the most significant European power to recognise a Palestinian state, others have hinted they could do the same.

Norway, Spain, Ireland and Slovenia all announced recognition following the outbreak of the Gaza conflict, along with several other non-European countries.

Spanish Prime Minister Pedro Sanchez, whose country already recognises Palestinian statehood, welcomed Mr. Macron's announcement.

"Together, we must protect what Netanyahu is trying to destroy. The two-state solution is the only solution," the Socialist leader said.

European nations urge immediate aid for Gaza

Britain, France and Germany on Friday urged an end to Gaza's "humanitarian catastrophe" as the UN food agency warned almost a third of people in Palestinian territory were not eating for days.

In a joint statement, the leaders of the three European powers urged Israel "to immediately lift restrictions on the flow of aid and urgently allow the UN" and NGOs to "take action against starvation". "The most basic needs of the civilian population, including access to water and food, must be met without any delay," they said.

Israel has, however, rejected accusations it is responsible for the deepening crisis in Gaza.

Thailand warns of war with Cambodia as over 1.38 lakh flee

Agence France-Presse
SI SA KET

Thailand's acting Prime Minister Phumtham Wechayachai warned on Friday that cross-border clashes with Cambodia that have uprooted more than 1,30,000 people "could develop into war", as the countries traded deadly strikes for a second day.

A long-running border dispute erupted into intense fighting with jets, artillery, tanks and ground troops on Thursday, and the UN Security Council is set to hold an emergency meeting on the crisis later on Friday.

A steady thump of artillery strikes could be heard from the Cambodian side of the border on Friday, where the province of Oddar Meanchey reported one civilian had been killed and five more wounded.

Martial law

More than 1,38,000 people have been evacuated from Thailand's border regions, its Health Ministry said, reporting 15 fatalities with a further 46 wounded, including 15 troops.

On Friday evening, a Thailand military border commander declared martial law in eight districts on the frontier with Cambodia, citing "Cambodia's use of force to enter Thai territory".

"We have tried to compromise as we are neighbours, but we have now instructed the Thai military to act immediately in case of urgency," Mr. Phumtham said.

'Limited to clashes'

"If the situation escalates, it could develop into war – though for now, it remains limited to clashes," he told reporters in Bangkok.

By the afternoon, Foreign Ministry spokesperson Nikorndej Balankura said there were signs the fighting was easing off, and said Thailand was open to talks, possibly aided by Malaysia.

Malaysia currently holds the chair of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) regional bloc, of which Thailand and Cambodia are both members.

However Cambodian Prime Minister Hun Manet claimed Thailand had already backed out of one proposed truce, saying in a statement he was awaiting Bangkok's "genuine willingness" to de-escalate.

Brazil ex-general tells court he drafted Lula assassination paper

Agence France-Presse
BRASÍLIA

A retired general told Brazil's Supreme Court he drafted a document planning for President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva's assassination, as part of an alleged coup plot for which former President Jair Bolsonaro is also on trial.

General Mario Fernandes, a former acting chief of the General Secretariat of the presidency under Mr. Bolsonaro, confirmed in his testimony on Thursday that he drafted and printed the document, though he described it as a personal "thought" of his.

The far-right Bolsonaro is on trial for allegedly plotting a coup to cling to power after losing the 2022 election to leftist Lula da Silva.

The plot allegedly included a plan – dubbed "Green and Yellow Dagger"– to assassinate Mr. Lula, according to prosecutors. The alleged plan was to be carried out on December 15, 2022.

U.S. drops sanctions on Myanmar junta allies after letter of praise to Trump

Agence France-Presse
YANGON

The United States has lifted sanctions on several allies of Myanmar's ruling general and their military-linked firms, a U.S. Treasury notice shows, after the junta chief sent a glowing letter of praise to President Donald Trump. Junta chief Min Aung Hlaing seized power in a 2021 coup, deposing the civilian government and sparking a civil war which has killed thousands, leaving 3.5 million displaced and half the nation in poverty.

Two weeks ago, the top general sent a letter to Mr. Trump, responding to his threat of tariffs by lauding his presidency with praise, including for shutting down U.S.-funded media outlets covering the conflict.

A United States Treasury notice on Thursday said sanctions were dropped against KT Services and Logistics, the Myanmar Chemical and Machinery Company, and Suntac Technologies – as well as their managers.

KT Services and Logistics and its CEO Jonathan Myo Kyaw Thaung were described as junta "cronies" when they were sanctioned in 2022 for leasing Yangon's port from a military firm for $3 million a year.

Min Aung Hlaing

The Myanmar Chemical and Machinery Company and its owner, Aung Hlaing Oo, and Suntac Technologies owner Sit Taing Aung were sanctioned later that year for producing arms, including tanks and mortars.

A third Myanmar national, Tin Latt Min – who the U.S. previously described as owning "various companies that are closely related to the regime" – was also removed from the sanctions list.

The Treasury notice did not give a reason for their removal.

SOLO (INDONESIA)

Tanvi Sharma and Vennala Kalagotla continued their impressive run at the badminton Asia juniors individual championships, advancing to the semifinals here on Friday.

Second seed Tanvi defeated fifth seed Thalita Ramadhani Wiryawan of Indonesia 21-19, 21-14 in a swift 35-minute match.

Vennala braved a strong challenge from Thailand's Janyaporn Meepanthong in a gripping 58-minute contest. Vennala took the opening game 21-18 with some sharp rallies, but Janyaporn fought back to bag the second 21-17, forcing the match into a decider.

In the final game, Vennala pulled ahead in the closing stages eventually sealing 21-17 victory to earn her semifinal berth.

Both Indians now face Chinese opponents in the semifinals, with Tanvi set to take on eighth seed Yin Yi Qing and Vennala going up against Liu Si Ya.

The results: Girls (quarterfinals): Tanvi Sharma bt Thalita Ramadhani Wiryawan (Ina) 21-19, 21-14; Vennala Kalagotla bt Janyaporn Meepanthong (Tha) 21-18, 17-21, 21-17.

Unnati bows out after quarterfinal loss to Yamaguchi

Press Trust of India
CHANGZHOU (CHINA)

Unnati Hooda's dream run ended at the China Open Super 1000 as she lost to World No. 4 Akane Yamaguchi of Japan in straight games in the quarterfinals here on Friday.

The 17-year-old, who scripted her biggest career win against 'idol' and two-time Olympic medallist PV Sindhu, lost 16-21, 12-21 in a match that lasted 33 minutes.

Disappointing end

With Unnati's exit, India's singles campaign in the tournament came to an end. In the opening game, Unnati kept pace with Yamaguchi early on but failed to sustain the momentum, with the Japanese star reeling off five consecutive points at one stage to take it 21-16.

Unnati's best run was taking three points in a row.

Similar script

The second game followed a similar script. Despite winning four straight points, Unnati fell behind as Yamaguchi strung together six consecutive points and wrapped up the second game 21-12. Overall, Yamaguchi won 42 of the 70 points played across both games.

Root scores a record 12th century against India in the longest format

GETTY IMAGES

Joe Root's century on the third day of the fourth Test at Old Trafford was his 12th against India, the most by any batter. It came in his 34th Test and 62nd innings against the opponent. He went past Steve Smith, who has 11 hundreds versus the Indians. Root also has 12 half-centuries against India.

NO PLACE TO HIDE

This has been a good learning experience for Kamboj: Morkel

AP

India's bowling coach Morne Morkel said that the team "lacked that little bit of energy on the ball" as the fast bowling unit struggled at Old Trafford. Debutant Anshul Kamboj has had an underwhelming outing. "This is international cricket, and there's no place to hide. But for him, it's been a good learning experience," Morkel said.

Now, it is Her Story for Indian chess

P.K. Ajith Kumar

History.

That is one word you may have come across often in write-ups or discussions on Indian chess for the last year or so.

There have been the incredible twin gold, for the men's and women's teams, at the Chess Olympiad in Budapest, D. Gukesh's World championship victory in Singapore...

And yet, history that was made in the Georgian city of Batumi on Thursday evening, at the women's World Cup, is really special. Because it is more of Her Story.

While India is the dominant force in men's chess – or rather, open chess – that isn't quite the case in the women's game. China is the undoubted superpower in women's chess.

All the last three World champions are from China; half the world's top 10 women are Chinese, and there is only one Indian.

Battle of generations

The World Cup final, starting on Saturday, however, is an all-Indian affair. Koneru Humpy, the World No. 5, takes on Divya Deshmukh, No. 18. They both overcame Chinese rivals in the semifinals, Lei Tingjie and Tan Zhongyi, respectively.

And it is a battle between generations, too. Humpy is 38. Divya is 19.

While the older woman has established herself as one of the world's greatest female players of all time in a career that has spanned over three decades, and she continues to overpower opponents who are much younger (she won the World rapid championship last December), the teenager is one of the game's rising stars.

They both showed exceptional skills and nerves of steel to move to the final of this demanding knockout tournament that featured most of the world's top players.

Their battle should provide some fascinating chess. Whichever way the final goes, towards Vijayawada or Nagpur, it should be a memorable one for the Indian sports fan.

It is not every day that the final of a major event has two Indians.

Big move: Giant-killer Divya will be aiming for another top scalp in the final. PTI

Classy Root continues love affair with Old Trafford as England gains control

The batting mainstay overtakes Ponting, becomes the second-highest run-scorer in Tests behind Tendulkar; a forgettable day for the Indian bowlers

INDIA IN ENGLAND

Shayan Acharya
MANCHESTER

Joe Root's love affair with Old Trafford continued as his milestone-laden century put England on top in what could possibly be the series-deciding Test.

Making the most of the bright sunshine and favourable conditions, Root (150, 248b, 14x4) brought up his 38th century and on the way became the second-highest run-scorer in Test history surpassing Rahul Dravid, Jacques Kallis and Ricky Ponting. Now, only Sachin Tendulkar is ahead of him in the list with 15,921 runs.

As records tumbled, a nonchalant Root focused on building crucial partnerships – first with Ollie Pope (144) and later with Ben Stokes (unbroken 142) – as England ended the day at 544 for seven, and pushed India on the back foot with a 186-run lead.

In his illustrious career, Root has had numerous memorable moments at the famous venue, where he remains the leading run-scorer for England in red-ball cricket, and as the Indian bowlers cut a sorry figure on Friday, the veteran marched on.

Shubman Gill underbowled Washington Sundar for the larger period of the first session, and eventually, when he was brought into the attack after lunch, the off-spinner picked up the wickets of Pope and Harry Brook to momentarily boost India's confidence. However, Root and Stokes put England back on top.

Letting the game drift

Conservative strategy and fitness concerns for Jasprit Bumrah and Mohammed Siraj meant India let the game drift. Bumrah, who struggled after rolling his left ankle while climbing down the dressing room staircase, bowled only one over with the new ball post lunch before leaving the field. His absence meant that he wasn't allowed to bowl before tea, even though he returned to the field shortly.

With no Bumrah around and Siraj hobbling off the field for a while, India's fast bowling attack was in disarray as Shardul Thakur and Anshul Kamboj, who bowled under 130 kmph, erred in line and length as plenty of boundaries came along.

India's plan to use spinners Washington and Ravindra Jadeja in tandem, too, did not yield the results as England went past 400 with ease before Root brought up his hundred by glancing Kamboj for a four.

Missed chance

Root, however, got lucky earlier in the innings when Jadeja missed a run-out opportunity at the non-striker's end, and making the most of it, he went on to become the first batter to score 1000 Test runs at Old Trafford. Though India found some momentum with some quick wickets in the final session, England was firmly in control of the game by then. Stokes (77 batting, 134b, 6x4), after a hamstring pull, returned to action and ensured that there was no further loss.

Kamboj and Shardul were brought in to reduce the workload of Bumrah, but on a challenging surface, they bowled 29 overs together, whereas Bumrah alone bowled 28.

No back-up plan

With captain Gill failing to come up with a back-up plan, and his bowlers failing to seize the key moments, it was a day of despair for India.

At a venue, where it has never won a Test, India conceded a 500-plus total and has its back to the wall.

Rock-solid: Root broke a number of records much to the dismay of the Indians. GETTY IMAGES

India call-up most significant step of my career: Jagadeesan

S. Dipak Ragav
CHENNAI

When N. Jagadeesan was preparing to leave for practice on Thursday in his hometown of Coimbatore, his focus would have been to get ready for the TNCA first division league next week. Little did he expect to be picked for the Indian team to be part of the fifth Test against England next week, replacing the injured Rishabh Pant.

"I was surprised when I got the call," said Jagadeesan. "It is the most significant step of my career and a dream come true. I have grown up thinking about this very moment. It is a great feeling not just for me but my parents and coach (A.G. Guruswamy) as well."

A key person behind the 29-year-old's resurgence in recent times has been former India player Robin Uthappa. "We have known each other since our CSK days. A couple of years ago, after not being picked in the IPL, I felt I needed a mentor, and we got in touch. He has given me a sense of security about how I feel as a cricketer."

The TN vice-captain also felt that his promotion to the opening spot two years ago had helped him.

As he now awaits his visa before joining the team, Jagadeesan adds, "I just want to be in the present, enjoy this moment and not get over-excited".

Red Bull Racing set for tough times post Horner's exit, says Villeneuve

FORMULA ONE

S. Dipak Ragav

This weekend's Belgian Grand Prix will be the first time in 20 years Red Bull Racing will not be led by Christian Horner, who was sacked two weeks ago following the British Grand Prix.

As the team embarks on the post-Horner era, former F1 World Champion Jacques Villeneuve, said the team is set for some tough times ahead, having lost its team boss, who was instrumental in all its success.

"It was very sudden, unexpected, but it's been brewing in the background for quite a while. It is destabilising for the team because Christian ran the factory, so this will have an effect, and it will take a bit of time to rebalance everything," said Villeneuve.

"It's been a little bit difficult for the team. Adrian Newey (former technical boss) and some other key members left. But Christian brought the outfit to where it is now.

Powering ahead: Piastri took pole for the sprint race. AFP

"So this situation is very tough on him, and it's difficult from the outside to understand the reasoning behind the whole situation," he added.

Commenting on this year's championship, the 1997 drivers' champion believes Lando Norris, who is eight points behind championship leader and teammate Oscar Piastri, has built a bit of momentum with wins in the last two races.

"Lando seems to have recovered a bit. He seems to be more emotional than Piastri, but he has a slight edge in speed. So when you take the two into account, it's hard to know which one has the better shot at winning.

FanCode is the official broadcaster for F1 in India

"There's a big difference between being the team leader, the championship leader or being the underdog. Lando seems to be better when he's a little bit behind and has to fight back to come forward. So he is in a good position right now," said Villeneuve.

AP adds: Piastri beat Max Verstappen to pole position for the sprint race at the Belgian Grand Prix. The Australian was at risk of being eliminated after straying off track in the second part of the session but bounced back to take pole by .477 of a second from Verstappen, who split the two McLarens by relegating Norris to third, .618 off the pace.

"The car's been mega all day," Piastri said on Friday. "This is a track I love, it's my favourite one".

Veteran India woman batter Veda Krishnamurthy retires

India batter Veda Krishnamurthy on Friday announced her retirement from international cricket but hinted that she will continue to be associated with the sport in some other role. Veda played 48 ODIs and 76 T20Is, collecting 829 and 875 runs respectively. "From a small-town girl with big dreams to wearing the India jersey with pride. Grateful for everything cricket gave me the lessons, the people, the memories. Time to say goodbye to playing, but not to the game. Always for India. Always for the team" she said in a social media post. The 32-year-old last played the T20I match against Australia at Melbourne in 2020. She made her international ODI debut in 2018.

Anahat loses to Nadien in the World junior squash semis

Anahat Singh of India, seeded two, lost to Nadien El Hamammy of Egypt (3/4) 11-6, 14-12, 12-10 in the semifinals of the WSF-World junior squash championships in Cairo on Friday. The 17-year-old was up 10-5 in the second game and 10-7 in the third, but the Egyptian came back strongly, and will meet the top-seeded Amina Orfi in the final. In another all-Egyptain last four clash, Amina defeated Sohalya Hazeem (5/8) 11-6, 11-5, 11-5.

Nagal and Yuki in Indian team for Davis Cup tie against Switzerland

Along with the former, Karan and Aryan are the designated singles players; Rajpal and Ashutosh to be the captain and coach respectively

TENNIS

Sports Bureau
NEW DELHI

The top-three players, Sumit Nagal, Karan Singh and Aryan Shah, have been selected to play the singles matches in the Davis Cup World Group-1 tie to be staged on indoor hard courts in Switzerland on September 12 and 13.

All the players were available for selection this time, and Yuki Bhambri and Sriram Balaji will feature in the doubles.

The selection committee of the All India Tennis Association, which met under the chairmanship of Nandan Bal, also announced three reserve players – Dhakshineswar Suresh, S. Mukund and Rithvik Bollipalli. Rohit Rajpal and Ashutosh Singh will be the captain and coach respectively.

India has a 2-1 win-loss record against Switzerland, and has beaten it both at home and away.

The two teams met the last time in 1993 on the grass courts of South Club in Kolkata, when Ramesh Krishnan and Leander Paes helped the team win the tie 3-2. The two won their singles matches against Jakob Hlasek, and won the doubles in five sets against Hlasek and Marc Rosset. The Barcelona Olympics gold medallist Rosset won both his singles matches then.

The current Switzerland team, which lost the first round of qualifier to Spain, is expected to be selected from Jerome Kym (145), Marc-Andrea Huesler (170), Dominic Stricker (205), Mika Brunold (300), Alexander Ritschard (314), Jakub Paul (350) and Remy Bertola (352).

Nagal has slipped to a rank of 306, while Karan and Aryan are ranked 403 and 442 respectively.

Yuki is the highest ranked Indian doubles player at 35, and Balaji is at 75, two places above Rithvik.

Huge responsibility: Nagal, who has slipped to a world ranking of 306, needs to raise his game in the away fixture. FILE PHOTO: REUTERS

Vaishnavi wins bronze medal in World University Games

Sports Bureau

Vaishnavi Adkar went down fighting 6-2, 4-6, 4-6 in a three-hour duel in the women's tennis semifinals to Eszter Meri of Slovakia in the World University Games in Rhine-Ruhr, Germany. It was a fine run by the 20-year-old Vaishnavi who had dropped only 19 games in all in winning the earlier four rounds in a draw of 64.

The effort fetched her a rare tennis medal in the Games.

In fact, it was the only individual medal so far for the Indian contingent.

Vaishnavi was close to winning another medal in the mixed doubles with Atharva Sharma but the duo got beaten in the quarterfinals by the Japanese pair of Natsuki Yoshimoto and Jay Friend.

Vaishnavi and Atharva had won two rounds earlier without dropping a set against teams from Colombia and USA.

Giving it her all: Vaishnavi went down to Slovakia's Meri in a hard-fought semifinal. SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

The results: Women: Singles (semifinals): Eszter Meri (Svk) bt Vaishnavi Adkar 2-6, 6-4, 6-4; Quarterfinals: Vaishnavi bt Sina Herrmann (Ger) 6-1, 6-4; Pre-quarterfinals: Vaishnavi bt Angella Okutoyi (Ken) 6-3, 6-4; Second round: Vaishnavi bt Venla Elisa Ahti 6-2, 6-4; Li Zongyu (Chn) bt Anjali Rathi 6-1, 6-4; First round: Vaishnavi bt Jollen Geels (Ned) 6-1, 6-0; Anjali bt christina Owomuhangi (Uga) 6-0, 6-0.

Parneet and Kushal joined hands to rally from being a point down in the second end to defeat the Korean duo of Park Yerin and Seunghyun Park

Parneet Kaur and Kushal Dalal made crucial contributions as Indian compound archers claimed three medals, including a gold, a silver and a bronze, in team events at the World University Games in Essen, Germany, on Friday.

Parneet and Kushal joined hands to rally from being a point down in the second end to defeat the Korean duo of Park Yerin and Seunghyun Park 157-154 (39-39, 38-39, 40-36, 40-40) in a closely fought mixed team event title clash and win the gold.

Kushal, Sahil Jadhav and Hritik Sharma had a bright start against Turkey, comprising Batuhan Akcaoglu, Yunus Arslan, Yakup Yildiz, in the men's team summit clash, but slipped in the final end to be beaten 232-231 (57-58, 57-59, 60-57, 58-57).

World championships women's team gold medallist Parneet, Madhura Dhamangaonkar and Avneet Kaur dispatched the United Kingdom, consisting of Hallie Boulton, Chloe A'Bear, Grace Chappell, 232-224 (59-51, 58-58, 56-56, 59-59) to take the bronze medal.

Parneet, Kushal and Sahil will compete for individual medals on Saturday.
